QUEEN, PRINCE PHILIP START TOUR JUNE 18

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip will begin their Canadian visit June 18, Buckingham Palace announced today.

The Queen will open the St. Lawrence Seaway during the six-week tour. The palace has not yet announced any details of the tour.

Fiscal Policy Fight to Mark Ottawa Session

OTTAWA (UPI)—The second session of Canada's lopsided 24th Parliament opens Thursday with the feature spotlight squarely on the nation's economy.

Governor-General Vincent Massey will formally open the session Thursday afternoon by reading the Speech from the Throne, outlining the government's legislative plans; to a formally-attired assemblage of members of Parliament, senators, supreme court justices and diplomats in the red senate chamber.

Two Conservative MPs representing east and west—Warner Jorgenson, of Provencher, Man., and by-election winner Louis Fortin, of Montmagny-L'Islet, Que.—will perform the traditional moving and seconding of the Throne Speech-Friday.

The real Throne debate, a 10-day affair, will get underway Monday with opposition leader Lester Pearson the lead-off man.

While the numerical standing in the Commons will be unchanged from the first session, which ended Sept. 6, most observers expect a radical change in atmosphere.

Stiffer Opposition Expected

The opposition, which spent most of the 117-day opening session regrouping after the mammoth Conservative election victory last March 31, is expected to be in a much more belligerent mood this time.

The Liberals and the tiny CCF group will undoubtedly centre their attack on the government's economic policy, with special reference to the related unemployment problem.

Government figures, expected early next week, will probably show a mid-December unemployed total in the vicinity of 500,000 persons.

The government, while defending its housing and winter works programs as solid measures to meet the unemployment problem, is also expected to put forth one new measure in this field.

Labor Minister Michael Starr has indicated that the present $30 a week limit on unemployment insurance benefits may be raised.

Among the forms the Liberal and Socialist attack on this front will take will undoubtedly be the perennial opposition cry of "too little, too late."

Debates on government policy will include battles both on what the government has done and is planning to do.

The cabinet, headed by Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Finance Minister Fleming, will defend the decision of last spring's budget to meet the recession by heavy government spending rather than large-scale tax cuts.

The opposition will counter with the argument that government policy has not only failed to revive economic activity, but at the same time has also created a serious inflationary situation.

New Budget to Increase Taxes?

As for future policy, Fleming's 1959 budget, to be laid before Parliament in early spring, will contain the government's decision on or con an increase in taxation to meet inflation.

Should the government decide to boost taxes, the Liberals and CCFers will point to Conservative election statements of the past two campaigns that the nation was already over-taxed.

Should the Diefenbaker administration decide against raising taxes, the opposition will be ready with cries of government irresponsibility in dealing with the problem of inflation.

Present indications are that a tax boost will be forthcoming.

On the legislative side, two of the biggest items to be introduced by the government will be ones left over from the summer session. A bill of rights and a motion to abolish the controversial closure rule, both under the Prime Minister's name, were left unfinished and will be reintroduced.

Among the new items, some form of government legislation to settle Canada's railway revenue problem is expected and will undoubtedly produce considerable controversy. Some reports say the cabinet has been considering subsidizing the two major railways.

The House itself will be unchanged despite the four by-elections held since the September adjournment. The re-election of Conservatives in Grenville, Dundas, Ont., and Springfield, Man., and a government victory in traditionally Liberal Montmagny-L'Islet balanced out a Liberal gain in Toronto Trinity and left party standings as follows:

Conservatives, 208; Liberals, 49, and CCF, eight.

Present indications are that the winter session may be a marathon one stretching into mid-summer. Few observers expect House business to be completed before the Royal visit scheduled to begin in mid-June.

'Lively' Liberals Prepared

OTTAWA CP—Opposition Leader Pearson said today the Liberals "are much livelier than they were a year ago."

He presided at a day-long caucus of Liberal MPs to plan "party organization and tactics" at the new session of Parliament opening Thursday.

At the noon adjournment he told a reporter: "We had a general exchange of views and discussed various issues with vigor and enthusiasm. The members showed themselves much livelier than a year ago—for obvious reasons."

The Liberals were badly beaten at the polls in the March 31 election last year. Since then there has been a gradual regathering of forces. The Liberals now argue that the recession has given them stronger ammunition against the powerful Progressive Conservative government.

The sources declined to reveal how they got their information.

No New Executions

HAVANA (AP)—A presidential secretary today denied that executions of persons accused of crimes under the Batista regime had been suspended. However, there were no new reports of executions.

He also told a National Press Club audience that he wants to find out from Anastas I. Mikoyan whether the Russians "are so sick of the armament burden that they want to find a way out of this dilemma."

He thought Mikoyan, first deputy Russian premier and right-hand man of Premier Khrushchev, should be trying to find out the same thing from him.

MEETING SATURDAY

The two will meet here Saturday. Eisenhower said he has no intention of making any new proposals to Mikoyan because that would transform an informal talk into a kind of conference negotiation.

Turning to German issues, Eisenhower endorsed in his own words the stand taken Tuesday by State Secretary Dulles. Dulles rejected the Russian plan for a neutralized Germany and said Western policy must insist on a Germany integrated into Western Europe.

DIEFENBAKER SHOCKED BY SLOAN'S PASSING

The death today of The Hon. Gordon McG. Sloan brought instant words of regret from Prime Minister John Diefenbaker in Ottawa.

The prime minister said he was "shocked to hear of the death of the former Chief Justice of British Columbia, who was both an outstanding jurist and a public servant, throughout a most distinguished career."

'Sloan Worked For People Until Very End'

By PETE LOUDON

Gordon Sloan worked for the province and the people until the very end.

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston disclosed this morning that during his recent illness the former chief justice and forestry adviser to the province carried on with the affairs of his office, even during a sojourn in hospital.

Mr. Williston said that only on Tuesday did Mr. Sloan pause in his endeavors.

"I talked to his house yesterday. They told me he had a virus infection and was instructed to lay off for a week." His devotion to duty, to the province and the people was mentioned in hundreds of tributes today—tributes which place Gordon Sloan as one of the great men of his time in British Columbia.

The same reverence was expressed by leaders of government, business and industry—and by the "little people" of the province.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett and members of his cabinet walked to a meeting solemnly. The premier's eyes were tear-filled. Each spoke words of sorrow and exalted Mr. Sloan's memory.

Here are the tributes: Premier W. A. C. Bennett—"It is a saddened province this morning. I am in such a state of shock, I can't think of anything." But later his office released a statement:

"I was shocked early this morning to learn that the former chief justice of British Columbia, the Honorable Gordon McGreggor Sloan passed away suddenly at his home. His death is a great loss, both to the government and the people of British Columbia.

"The former chief justice has served the province well over the whole period of his life.

"In his young manhood he was a member of the Legislature, and at the time of his appointment was the youngest Attorney-General in Canada. In recognition of his great ability, he was appointed Chief Justice at an unusually early age for that position.

"Even though that position called for tremendous capabilities and energy, he also devoted freely of his time to the good of the province in fields very close to his heart, in labor market matters and in the field of forestry. In both of these fields his knowledge was recognized as outstanding on the continent.

"Though I knew that he has been ill for some little time, we all thought he was making great recovery, and his sudden passing was a great shock.

"All British Columbia mourns his passing, and Mrs. Bennett and myself especially wish to express our heartfelt sympathy to his widow, Mrs. Sloan, and to his son and daughter."

Macy's Basement Intrigues Mikoyan

NEW YORK (AP)—Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan dropped into Macy's department store today. He headed straight for the bargain basement.

Mikoyan got a bit of special treatment. He was ushered in for his store tour half an hour before the morning opening hour, and thus was spared the usual shopping throngs.

Later Mikoyan was to take a pulse sounding of the American financial system in a lunch with Wall Street bankers.

The return of the Russian trade expert to New York Tuesday night provoked relatively little disturbance.

Stricken While Convalescing From Heart Attack

By A. H. STOTT

The Hon. Gordon McGreggor Sloan, 60, forestry adviser to the provincial government and former Chief Justice of British Columbia, died at his home, 1029 Beach Drive, shortly before 3 a.m. today.

He had been convalescing from a coronary occlusion suffered last November and had been released from hospital Dec. 31.

Death came suddenly and unexpectedly, when all indications were that Mr. Sloan was on the road to recovery.

Recent visitors described him as appearing "in good spirits," looking well, and hoping for a return to his duties within a few months.

His demise ended an active life, embracing outstanding careers in law, public affairs and, during the last year, advisory counsel to the government on B.C.'s forest industries—a newly-created post which earned for him the unofficial title of British Columbia's forestry "czar," at a salary of $50,000 a year.

Funeral Services Set for Friday

Funeral services will be held at Christ Church Cathedral Friday at 2 p.m. The Most Rev. Harold E. Sexton, Archbishop of British Columbia, will officiate.

Burial will take place at Royal Oak Burial Park in the family plot, Hayward's B.C. Funeral Co. Ltd. is in charge of arrangements.

The services, expected to draw one of the largest crowds of mourners of any funeral of recent times, will be attended by senior government officials, as well as dignitaries from the bench, the church and from all other professions and occupations.

Tributes flowing in today from men and women in all walks of life bore testimony to the respect and affection in which Mr. Sloan was held.

A unique combination of perceptive mind, broad vision, sound judgment, intense powers of concentration and personal charm early marked

Gordon Sloan for eminence in the affairs of his country.

Born at Nanaimo, May 16, 1898, he was raised in the family of a distinguished father, the Hon. William Sloan, leading figure in British Columbia's Liberal politics and member of provincial cabinets.

Following a private school education, he enlisted in Canada during the First World War, serving overseas with the RFC and RAF.

On his return he studied law, was called and admitted to the bar in 1921 and practiced with the firm of Farris and Company until he entered politics in the provincial general election of 1933. He was elected by Vancouver Centre and was appointed attorney-general in the administration of Premier T. D. Pattullo the same year, then the youngest attorney-general in history at 35.

Days of Unemployment Troubles

Those were days of high unemployment and deep trouble for British Columbia. As attorney-general it was his duty to promulgate and carry through the House legislation to meet the difficulties of the era.

In 1937, while still under 40, he was elevated to Court of Appeal, a young man serving with veterans on the bench.

His capacities carried him to the Chief Justiceship by 1944 and his judgments have become authorities frequently cited.

It was a mark of his abilities that he was chosen for important investigations into matters of great public consequence in the role of royal commissioner.

In 1940 he presided over inquiries into the salmon fisheries of British Columbia for the federal government. Two years later he had been recruited to head a royal commission studying the provincial Workmen's Compensation Act and its administration for the province.

With each hearing the public acclaimed the stature of Mr. Justice Sloan. His services continued in demand.

First Forestry Inquiry in 1942

In 1942 he was called to the field which occupied so much of his later life. As royal commissioner inquiring into British Columbia's forest resources he laid the foundations for reports which are now handbooks on the subject.

His report of 1945 became the forestry Bible, the basis of the sustained yield policy which is today the vital conservation factor in the province's main industry.

In 1955 he renewed his inquiries on the same subjects, bringing them up to date and setting out broad policy for the development of the industry, the preservation of the resource and the higher efficiency of forestry administration by the government.

By that time the Chief Justice had made himself perhaps the outstanding, over-all authority on forestry in Canada. It was a natural step for the provincial government to invite him to utilize his knowledge and ability in that field in more direct form. He accepted the invitation and, to the applause of virtually all connected with the woods and the woods industries, became provincial adviser on all matters related to the forest resources.

In the intervening years he had carried on his interrupted duties as presiding officer over the Court of Appeal, had assumed the post of the official administrator when the Lieutenant-Governor was away from the city, discharging with customary dignity and efficiency the responsibilities of the sovereign's representative, and had been called for numerous other outside tasks.

Among them were the offices of arbitrator for the national railway dispute in 1954-55, and mediator in labor

H. M. MacMillan, leading British Columbia industrialist, said:

"This is a greater loss than one can imagine. Gordon Sloan was dedicated to serving not only the forest industry, but indeed the whole public of B.C."

"His forest legislation exemplified his patience, sense of justice, and protection of all interests. He had the confidence of labor, of the electorate, and of forest industry managers."

"His death leaves a terrible vacuum. He would have been a source of strength to this province for years to come."

"I called on him at his home in Victoria on Jan. 2 and found him in good spirits, and looking well."

"He was getting encouraging reports from the doctor and I believe had been told he could start to walk in his garden in a week's time."

"It was a terrible shock to hear the news this morning."

Capt. F. G. Hart, secretary and assistant to Mr. Sloan, recalled the last instructions of Mr. Sloan were that his staff proceed with the paper work concerned with an investigation of forest management licence matters near Squamish.

"Mr. Sloan never slowed his work as death approached. Even in hospital, he did a few letters to while away the time."

Lands and Forests Minister Williston elaborated on Capt. Hart's statement—"I am sure Mr. Sloan's dedication to the job even surmounted his doctor's orders. His efforts in recent weeks, while he was sick, must have played a part in his untimely passing. Even in hospital, he had his stenographer, and had written to Empire Mills (a main land firm involved in his most recent inquiry) to get information he could work on in his convalescence."

"He shouldn't have been working. I wrote and told him to forget it. He wouldn't stay down. He was always pushing on the reins."

"I think his death will be a severe loss to the people of the province in general and the forest industry in particular, and to myself as an individual charged with responsibility for its administration."

"In any country, there are too few people with his outstanding qualities of direct approach, clear thinking, decisive, precise ability to reach the right decision. He dedicated himself to serve the people."

"We've been most fortunate to have a man of his value with us. His reports and commissions have laid the basis for a forestry program in this province which is in the forefront of the policies of the continent."

Where will B.C. find a man to take over Mr. Sloan's task?

"He was unique," answered the minister. "No man has the same background, the same prestige and effect. His only approach was what was right. There was no question of merely substantiating a government point of view."

The minister added that his last letter from Gordon Sloan concerned proposed legislation regarding setting up advisory boards to share forest administration and policy forming. "That will continue."

E. T. Kenney, former minister of lands and forests, (1944 to 1952), who went into the legislature with Mr. Sloan in 1933:

"It came as a great shock. He was one of the most brilliant men in the province. Apart from his jurisprudence, he will long be remembered for his contribution to forestry."

"His first report, in Jan. 1945, undoubtedly revolutionized forestry thinking throughout the province. It is the greatest contribution to provincial forestry of all time."

At Vancouver, spokesmen for the International Woodworkers of America said the death of Gordon Sloan removes from public service "One of the most capable conciliators and arbitrators this province has ever known." The union headquarters said the word of his passing was received "with deep regret" by all officers and members. "This will leave a void that is going to be difficult to fill, because his knowledge of industry and people was such as to give him great understanding of the many varied and complex problems that have faced labor and management over the years," the union statement added.

Mayor Percy Scourrah—"It is a great loss to the province. He was a man who contributed a great deal to the economic and political life of the province."

Most Rev. Harold E. Sexton, Archbishop of British Columbia: "In my judgment, Gordon Sloan was the greatest of our native sons. A man of the utmost integrity and modesty, he merited the complete confidence of the public, and his passing is a great loss to us all."

Dr. C. D. Orchard, until recently deputy minister of forests in the B.C. government, said:

"I am deeply shocked by Mr. Sloan's death. I held him in the very highest regard and his passing is a major loss to the province."

"He had a tremendous capacity for hard work and in all the years I knew him he rarely talked about anything else."

Dr. Orchard worked closely with Mr. Sloan on two royal forestry commissions.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner: "It was quite a shock to hear the news. It is difficult to adequately express my personal sense of loss. His career in public life and on the bench and as royal commissioner to several governments is unique, and was of tremendous value to B.C."

Edwin E. Pearlman, QC, president, Victoria Bar Association:

"The late Mr. Sloan was one of our outstanding jurists and an ornament of the profession."

"It is quite unique that the master agreement between the IWA and the Forest Industrial Relations (management) contained a clause, naming Mr. Sloan as the person who would settle any grievances which might arise."

"This is a mark of the confidence they had in him. He is a great loss to the province and the profession. Our deepest sympathies go out to his family."

Mrs. Dorothy Hewitt White, well-known Victoria secretary, paid tribute to Mr. Sloan as "a kind and courteous employer."

Mrs. White said she had taken on various secretarial assignments for Mr. Sloan over the past 35 years, including the Fisheries Commission.

"He was far from being a glad-hander and he was not an easy man to know. Yet in his quiet reserved way he was always kind and considerate to those who worked for him."

"In his youth he was an exceptionally handsome man of fine bearing. It is a tragedy that such a brilliant mind should be lost to the province."

Mrs. White said some people found Mr. Sloan somewhat humorous but she recognized in him "a quiet sense of humor that went deep."

Praise for Hon. Gordon Sloan's years as a judge and his work "to establish sound legal and equitable principles" in the province came from noted legal men in Victoria and Vancouver.

Speaking on behalf of the B.C. Supreme Court, presiding judge, Mr. Justice N. W. Whittaker, said:

"His was a very keen legal mind and during his years on the bench his decisions did much to establish sound legal and equitable principles."

"His services to the public outside the field of law were very great and well known."

"On my own behalf and on behalf of my colleagues, I would like to extend deepest sympathy to Mrs. Sloan and to her family."

Mention of the 20 years Mr. Sloan served as a member of the B.C. Court of Appeal was made by the court's presiding judge, Mr. Justice C. H. O'Halloran.

In an address before the court, Mr. Justice O'Halloran said Mr. Sloan was Chief Justice of the court for 13 years. "He was a man of many talents," the judge added, "and a man of diverse energies. His death leaves a great void in the public life of this province."

Mr. Justice O'Halloran lauded Mr. Sloan's work as conciliator in labor-management disputes, noting also that "his name will be long remembered for the extensive reports he made as royal commissioner on the forest industry and workmen's compensation matters."

Speaking for the B.C. Bar as the senior member present in court, John A. MacInnes, QC, said Mr. Sloan had reached "a standing when his mere name meant more than any title."

Tribute by Victoria Bar members was voiced by A. B. Russ, who mentioned "the tremendous regard and admiration" felt for Mr. Sloan by all who knew him.

Col. C. C. Merritt, VC, on behalf of the Vancouver bar, said Mr. Sloan had reached "tremendous prominence for his accuracy of decisions in management-labor disputes."

PICKED BY NEWSMEN 1956 'MAN OF YEAR'

Hon. Gordon Sloan in 1956 was named British Columbia's "Man of the Year."

The honor was bestowed by the Newsmen's Club of B.C. at its annual banquet. Other winners have included Premier Bennett and B.C. Electric president A. E. Grauer.

Management troubles at the request of both provincial and federal governments.

His record of success, his patience, courtesy and diplomacy at hearings, his ready grasp of facts, his mastery of difficult situations and his judicial impartiality placed him almost in the position of a highly respected trouble-shooter where matters of deep concern to the public were involved.

These were some of the official duties which claimed the physical reserves of a brilliant native son—one who chose to remain here in spite of invitations from the federal government to join the Supreme Court of Canada and in spite of efforts to bring him back to active politics as a provincial Liberal leader.

In private he was a man of wry wit, of deep enjoyment in reading, pottering in his garden, or playing an occasional round of golf, of finding time to assist in the work of the Boy Scouts and endorsing community causes. The University of British Columbia honored with him an LLD degree.

He is survived by the widow at home, one daughter Mrs. Sherwood "Bunny" Marshall; a son, David G., both of Victoria, and five grandchildren.

Armed Forces Won Tribute From Sloan

In October 1942, at the height of the Second World War, Mr. Sloan wrote a ringing tribute to men and women of the armed forces in an editorial page article in The Times.

"What are we asked to do?—those of us who remain?" he asked. "We are asked to loan our money so that these fighting Canadians—our own flesh and blood—may be armed to fight our war for us."

"That is our challenge. History will record, for a thousand years to come, our answer to it."

B.C. ELECTRIC

SLOAN YOUNGEST A-G UNTIL BONNER NAMED

When he was named attorney-general in Premier Pattullo's Liberal government, just before his 35th birthday, Mr. Sloan was the youngest man in history to hold the post.

Hon. Robert Bonner, named attorney-general in the present government at 32, has since broken that record.

Mr. Sloan resigned from the government in 1937 to become one of five justices of the B.C. Court of Appeal.

'COULD HAVE WON FOR THEM'

Liberals Wanted Sloan as Leader

TWICE REFUSED SUPREME COURT

Many lawyers say Mr. Sloan could have been a justice of the Supreme Court of Canada had he wished.

"I understand he twice refused the offer of a Supreme Court appointment," one lawyer said.

He Failed As Builder Of Boats

As a boy Gordon Sloan was a leading light in the Town-site Rovers, which made bold plans for a boat to sail Nanaimo Harbor and perhaps further.

This boat, christened the Red Wing, was built in the Sloan family's toolshed and launched on a hopeful summer day loaded with pop and doughnuts.

The Red Wing sailed down the skids and sank in 10 feet of water.

"It was perhaps the first great disappointment of my life," Mr. Sloan said recently.

NO MERE NOMINAL APPOINTMENT TO COUNCIL

Sloan Joined Scouts to Work

By STUART KEATE
Publisher, The Times

Last year the executive of the Boy Scouts of British Columbia and the Yukon approached the Hon. Gordon McG. Sloan to see whether he would be willing to serve on the Provincial Council of the association.

They did so with crossed fingers. It was known that Mr. Sloan was one of the busiest men in the country.

On Feb. 17, last year, he wrote to them:

"I consider this an honor and am pleased to accept."

Later he explained:

"This new job is going to be a busy one—but I hope it will give me time to do some community-service work I've always been interested in."

Before long, Mr. Sloan made it evident that he considered his appointment more than a nominal one; he intended to work at it.

"I'm enjoying this job," he smiled.

During the year, a dispute arose in one district over the dismissal of a Scout leader. Parents of the boys were distressed, feeling that the leader hadn't been given an opportunity to state his case.

One night, in a casual conversation in the Hotel Vancouver, I outlined the incident to Gordon Sloan.

He listened quietly, and then said:

"Would you like me to arbitrate the case?"

"No man should be condemned without a fair trial."

When word was passed that one of Canada's top arbitrators had offered to step in to a hearing on the rights of a humble Scout leader, the charges against the man were quickly dissipated and he was reinstated.

Last September, the Scouts asked Gordon Sloan if he would act as chairman of a fund-raising drive for a new headquarters building in Ottawa. He agreed.

OFFER TO RESIGN

On Dec. 23, after he was stricken, he wrote from the hospital saying that it "would be several months before I can return to normal duties," and offering to resign from the Scout council because he "felt he was not pulling his weight."

He explained in the letter that his doctors allowed a secretary to visit him for 10-minute intervals every two or three days, so that he could keep up with essential mail.

FRIEND TO NEWSMEN

The late Mr. Sloan was a good friend to newspapermen and was keenly interested in writing. He loved good books.

His "pride of authorship" showed up in the many briefs he wrote. He expressed himself in an elegant style which was not without wry wit.

In his 1945 report, for instance, commenting on the E. and N. land grant, he observed:

"A reward of $25 millions for construction of 82 miles of railway would, by most people, be considered an adequate return on an investment of $2.5 millions."

A few years ago he composed a brief on tree-farming, a subject dear to his heart.

Editors of The Times were so impressed with the grace of style and warmth of certain passages in the brief that they excised them and reprinted them on the editorial pages of the newspaper.

The Chief Justice—as he then was—was pleased.

"I've sometimes wondered whether I could make a living as a writer," he quipped to a friend.

'LISTEN TO SO MUCH, TELL YOU SO LITTLE'

Mr. Sloan's inscrutable expression when conducting royal commissions was often a subject of amusement in legal circles.

"He never gave you any lead as to which way an inquiry was going," a lawyer said. "If he sniffed during an argument you might think he was unimpressed but the reverse often proved to be true."

"I never knew a judge or commissioner who could listen to so much and tell you so little."

B.C.'s Great Loss

BRITISH COLUMBIANS AND Canadians are shocked by the death of the Hon. Gordon McGregor Sloan. Those who knew him realize that he has given his life for British Columbia. He died at far too early an age, worn out by his unremitting labors.

A brilliant mind which fathered forest conservation in this part of the world has gone. The loss is national, irreplaceable.

The son of a great figure in British Columbia's public life, the late Hon. William Sloan of Nanaimo, Gordon Sloan brought unique talents to the tasks he set for himself in a life dedicated to British Columbia.

Returning from service as a flier in the First World War he studied law, became a brilliant young counsel and entered public life successfully in the provincial election of 1933 to become attorney-general in the government of T. D. Pattullo at 35.

During his term in office he drafted and carried through the House many important pieces of legislation before leaving that field to assume a post on the Appeal Court.

There his keen mind, sound judgment and capacity for work brought him speedily to the post of Chief Justice, an office he held with distinction and in which he became the author of many brilliant judgments.

The demands placed upon him were onerous and continuous. Time after time he was called from the bench to conduct royal commissions and arbitrations. Through them he came to the problems of forestry, to which he literally gave his life.

The Sloan report of 1945 became the standard work on conservation for British Columbia. Refined and amended by his second exhaustive inquiry 10 years later, it stands today as his monument and legacy to the people of this part of Canada.

It was a natural sequence that the man who had demonstrated so clearly his mastery of the subject should be enlisted by the Provincial Government as its forest advisor, a new post without parallel in the province which depends for its economic health on products of the woods.

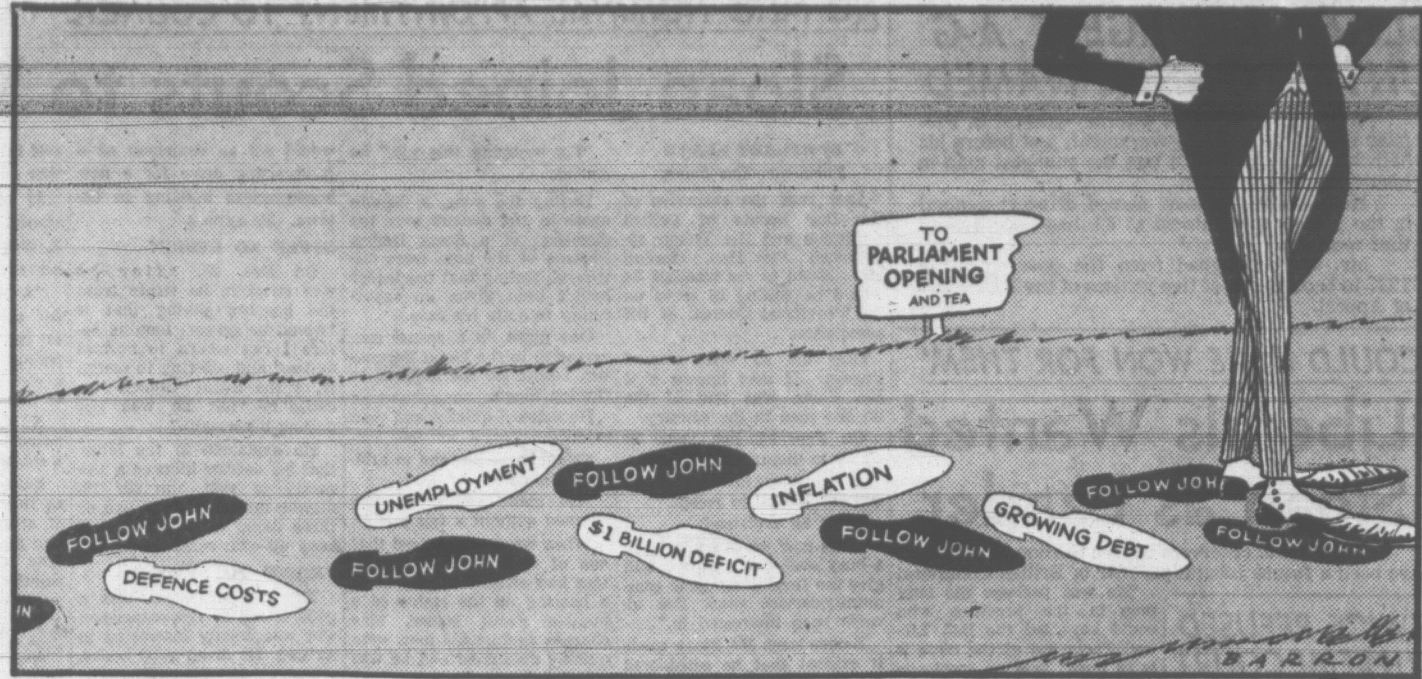

Though divorced from public life since his elevation to the bench, he has unquestionably influenced the future of British Columbia more than any other man of his generation.

The public had known Gordon Sloan as a figure of dignity, mental strength, vitality, quick perception, broad vision and balanced judgment—an ornament to the court and the commissions over which he presided.

Friends knew him as a man of quick wit, easy approach, warm humanity and a passionate love for British Columbia. It was no secret that he had several times declined appointment to the Supreme Court of Canada, choosing, instead, to give his talents and his energies to the part of the country he cherished and called home.

The full measure of that gift was life itself—a life that ended as he was reaching the full powers of mind and ability which have left an indelible stamp on this province.

With countless others, the Times extends its sympathies to the family in a deep sense of personal loss.

A MOMENT BEFORE YOU HURRY BY

Is Our Built-In Timing System Giving Us a Warning?

By B. A. TOBIN

It probably won't be long before someone brings forth the theory that the world is approaching its ultimate end, and supports the view by noting that mankind is speeding up things in what looks very much like a last-minute rush.

Is there some sixth sense built into our intellects which warns us, almost without our recognition, that the time is growing short? Is it even later than we think we think? There is much to support the idea. An inner haste seems to pervade our natures these days, and even those who pride themselves on not hurrying might be surprised at their velocity if they could compare it with that of most folks a few generations ago.

The man who used to walk to work, even if it took him an hour, today would not even consider such a thing. Why, he would say, I couldn't think of wasting so much time each day. Yet his grandfather may have done it, and laid the basis of the family fortune while doing so. He had time.

Walking is too slow, so take the bus. But the bus is too slow. Drive your car. And none of that 30 mph stuff. Get it up to 40 every block you can, because every minute, every second, counts.

What does it count for? That is not a sensible question these days. It just counts, and that is enough.

In Broad Street yesterday workmen were digging a pit beside the roadway as part of the underground wiring project. They ran into rock a few feet down and had to set off a few blasts.

Around the edge of the hole a crowd watched—enjoying a short pause before hurrying about their business. Even if they had not stopped for a few minutes they would have hurried to their next appointment anyway.

The subsequent hurrying would not be because of the time they had taken out for a breather. And the time out would not make them hurry faster. Obviously the hurry was a frame of mind rather than a necessity—a part of the vast speed-up which inflicts all mankind.

The blasting charge was prepared, the logs piled on top. The men clambered out of the hole and began to wave the crowd back. The onlookers shuffled away to a safe distance and waited patiently for the explosion. Everything was ready. There was a sudden stillness. At that exact instant, as the charge was about to be set off, a man hurried from across the street and cut diagonally over, coming dangerously near the pit and its explosives.

He looked to neither right nor left, but he knew what was going on—that in a second or two an explosion would take place. The blow-up was delayed, he got safely clear, and then came the muffled bang.

It is hard to say what errand led the man to risk injury, perhaps even his life, by running across the street at that precise moment.

He could have walked around to the end of the block, he could have waited the 30 seconds required for the operation, he could have taken an extra minute and gone around by another route.

Was it an emergency? Was he a doctor rushing to an accident, a lawyer running to take down a dying man's last will and testament, a businessman trying desperately to close a last-minute deal which would repay him for risking his life?

Or was he just one of us, a typical citizen of the twentieth century, to whom a 30-second delay was intolerable and not to be endured even at the cost of running through a dynamite blast?

Before we laugh at a man who values his life and limb at 30 seconds of time, let us consider our own cases.

How many of us have not at one time or another dashed in front of a bus we wanted to catch, apparently determined to stop it with our crunching bones and mangled flesh rather than let it pull out without us?

Who has not scrambled across an intersection on the yellow light rather than wait for the next green signal, when all we intended to do on the other side was stroll along and gaze in the store windows?

Or take the case of a man who pushes eagerly to get into an auditorium in which he will have his choice of several hundred seats and will derive no particular benefit from being eleventh in line instead of twelfth or twentieth.

There are many occasions on which a burst of speed is necessary, perhaps even to save a life. But so often when we run a risk to ourselves or someone else there is no need at all for the frantic haste. It comes not from the situation but from our own inner compulsion—a compulsion which seems to be independent of all real needs.

Can the urge be due to some deep, instinctive warning that we feel but cannot explain? Do we sense, through some long-lost and forgotten gift—such as that which guides birds infallibly across vast stretches of water, moves lemmings to set out on huge migrations or keeps elephants off unsafe bridges—that time is running out and we must hurry without knowing why we must?

If this is a natural portent, as when seagulls sense a coming storm, animals grow uneasy in advance of a forest fire or horses shun a "spooky" place, then had we not better take heed of it?

If we're going to benefit from the warning we'd better hurry.

Embarrassing the Host

FOR ITS OWN UNDERSTANDING, the United States is playing host to Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan. As host, the country is being embarrassed by violent anti-communists who have pelted rocks and eggs at the Russian visitor.

News reports state that the majority of demonstrators are Hungarians with a livid hatred of anything to do with the regime which subjugated their country. Their emotions can be appreciated.

At the same time Hungarians have come to this continent to seek asylum and have found it. But it is surely an automatic condition of their acceptance in the countries of the new world that they respect the responsibility of their host country. They do themselves and their national honor harm when they resort to rotten eggs and stones to greet another guest in the land which has welcomed them.

The Hungarians sought freedom. That gives them no license to transgress the rules of conduct applied in lands where they have found sanctuary.

Crocodile Tears

THE CANADIAN TRIBUNE, organ of the minuscule Labor-Progressive Communist Party, sheds its familiar crocodile tears over the farmers' unions of the prairies. These unions, says The Tribune, have made a grave mistake in refusing to link themselves with the proposed Labor Party, now being promoted by the CCF.

The poor, befuddled farmers, it appears, are the victims of "the propaganda spread by the big monopolies... that labor is to blame for high costs." This propaganda, alas, "has been all too effective."

The Communist splinter, of course, is all for a Labor Party and, in its enthusiastic offer of support, offers that movement its customary kiss of death (as it offered the same legal salute to the CCF in the recent Rossland-Trail by-election.)

Mr. Stanley Knowles and the other anti-Communist intellectuals of the CCF no doubt will know how to reject the embrace of the Labor Progressive Party; they have been rejecting it for years.

But they have failed, so far, to embrace the farmers' unions of Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

The average prairie farmer is a hard-minded and prudent man with his feet set firmly on his fertile earth. He clearly believes that his interests cannot be served by involvement in partisan politics.

After his experience in the old Progressive Party of the nineteen-twenties, he evidently sees that no party can succeed nationally if it is based on a single class, area or interest. The farm industry, therefore, must work through the great national parties, supporting the one which seems to help it most from time to time.

Exactly the same attitude is taken in the labor movement of the United States by Mr. Walter Reuther. He rejects the formation of a labor party as certain to damage the true interests of the working man.

A Promise on Indian Liquor

PREMIER BENNETT HAS promised to lift provincial liquor restrictions imposed on Indians if the Federal Government will permit its consumption on reserves.

The premier, who does not drink, knows that drinking will confer no physical benefit on Indians any more than it does on other Canadians. His promise, nevertheless, makes sense.

It makes sense because Indians, intent on acquiring liquor outside the avenues legally open to them are getting it illegally, and because the strictures placed on them are taken by natives as a symbol of second-class citizenship.

Of course they can achieve equality with other Canadians in this particular if they become enfranchised. For reasons which seem good to them, many Indians decline that step which would carry them to full citizenship.

Legal obstructions to their access to liquor have become a significant psychological factor of Indian life. Removal of such restrictions could conceivably eliminate one cause of a deep-seated resentment.

A change of law to place them on the same footing as other Canadians in respect to liquor would probably have certain adverse effects. The drinking Indian could, for instance, buy a great deal more liquor for the amount he is now paying to the bootlegger.

On balance, however, the qualified promise to give him equality in the right to buy packaged liquor if he is accorded permission to consume it at home suggests certain benefits. It might remove one of the causes to which authorities attribute the Indians' sense of inferiority. It might even promote a higher sense of responsibility among natives in their approach to liquor.

Dangerous for Aged

Having read about the United Church Elderly Folks accommodation being built at Harriet Road, and noting Mr. Nafte's remark that same is within walking distance of town, I would like to point out that it would be very unwise for elderly people to do that.

Some might try it and not suffer dire results such as strain on their hearts. Anyway, the energy used up should be conserved for the walking when in town. Also the traffic risks are to be considered, especially at the fountain circle.

Folks in Kiwanis Village that can get to the buses use them.

Closer Look at Clubs

In view of the very unfavorable publicity suffered by this city and country through the actions of certain private 'clubs' surely we can prevent further incidents. Our Provincial Government might take a very long look at the private 'club' liquor-licensing situation in this area. 'Clubs' that encourage non-member trade are taking advantage of a loose regulation that is fraught with troublesome angles.

If revenue-producing, government-operated sweepstakes are considered bad for the community—what in the name of common sense justifies the existence of some private 'clubs' dedicated to nothing but the unwholesome arts of gambling and guzzling?

We have an ample supply of well-furnished, well-equipped and well-regulated drinking establishments in this city. They cater to, and strive to satisfy the general public, and justly deserve the right to serve the public thirst in its entirety.

Residence-clubs and Veterans' clubs are well entitled to liquor licences, well operated, and most desirable—but private clubs offend too many to serve too few.

CITIZEN.

Orchid for Civil Servants

Having had experience of dealing with members of the Civil Service of five different countries, I should like to say a word in gratitude to the Civil Servants both Federal and Provincial in Victoria.

At all levels there is an accessibility, efficiency and a desire to be of service, which is a refreshing change from the superior air, and love of red tape frequently met with elsewhere.

It is perhaps rather late to pay this tribute after living here for thirteen years, but it has occurred to me that there must be many people who, without the benefit of my experience do not realize how fortunate they are.

Protest

Is there never going to be any end to the staggering burden of taxation we residents of Saanich must bear? Every year it's either an increased assessment or a raise in the mill rate.

Year after year the scope of taxation increases with more and more dollars being collected and this only seems to whet the appetite for further increases to be demanded.

At the meeting held on January 8 the Reeve of Saanich spoke about tens of millions of dollars being required in the next few years for services. Where he expects this to come from I don't know, as with the increasing unemployment the taxes we have now are, hard enough to bear to say nothing of the older people who are past the working age.

Many citizens must see the grim possibility of losing their homes altogether and I therefore suggest any property owner who thinks he is unjustly taxed or assessed to send in a protest before Jan. 17. Only by mass protesting will anything be done to stop us losing our homes.

FROM WASHINGTON

No Doubt It Would Be an Uncomfortable Road to Take

CAN government based upon liberty permanently endure, when ceaselessly challenged by a dictatorship (controlling great and growing) economic and military power? The President opened his State of the Union message with this gloom inquiry. It was the most important thing in the whole message, too. Here, in this question of the President's was the essential clue to the central mystery of the Eisenhower administration. The mystery itself can be simply stated. From the outset, the Eisenhower administration has persistently starved the national defence of the United States. By now, the resulting upset in the military power balance has gone terrifyingly far. But the President is still starving the national defence in the face of the open military threat to Berlin.

As the President is neither a criminal nor a lunatic, there must be some explanation of this seemingly irrational course of action. If you read his seemingly rhetorical question in its real context, you have the explanation.

Summed Up

The context of the President's question was best summed up by the former Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey, who still has more influence at the White House than any other single individual. Humphrey once declared, with absolute seriousness, that "two more years of Truman budgets would have caused this country to go Communist anyhow."

This conveys the basic idea the Humphrey and the other men of his school succeeded in implanting in the President's mind at the very beginning.

The Humphrey idea had a lot of trimmings, such as the famous, totally phony quotation from Lenin to the effect that Communism could force Capitalism to spend itself to death for defence. (Any real student of Communist theory of course knows that Soviet economists regard heavy defence spending as Capitalism's best escape from its "contradictions.")

Without these trimmings, however, the Humphrey idea is simplicity itself. It is the idea that adequate investments in national defence are dangerous to the free enterprise system, and are therefore more dangerous to the United States than the Soviet Union's whole vast panoply of military might.

It is the same idea, in fact, that kept Britain so long disarmed in the face of the rising threat of Hitler's military power.

In Washington at the moment, moreover, this doctrine is being proclaimed with special fervor for two related reasons.

The first and most tangible is the drop in the gold reserve of rather more than $2,000,000,000 in the past twelve months.

You might suppose that we would still have enough with a gold reserve that is still equal to the combined reserves of all the other nations in the world. But the drop in the reserve has nonetheless caused consternation at the Treasury. This is not surprising either, since the similar gold loss in 1935-36 caused George Humphrey, Herbert Hoover Jr., and their allies to talk as though the end of the world were probably at hand.

The second reason for the extra tenseness of feeling here is the report brought back from their recent trip abroad by Secretary of the Treasury Robert Anderson and the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board William McChesney Martin.

Martin gave the substance of this report in a December speech in Chicago. He noted that "among intelligent and perceptive men" abroad there was "a growing distrust of the future of the American dollar." He said that "to the foreigner, the dollar is a symbol of this country's strength."

Greatest Danger

He blamed the distrust principally upon the unbalanced budget. Anderson, taking the same argument a step further, has stated that this alleged distrust of the dollar was the greatest single danger to the Western alliance.

As late as October, a quite insufficient, but still substantial increase in the defence budget was still expected. The Anderson report and the drop in the gold reserve caused the decision to hold the defence budget below the former total in the face of steeply rising weapons costs.

No one at all seems to have thought of the other way out—stopping the lying about our national situation; telling the country the plain truth about our danger; and asking the country to pay the taxes, including if need be a federal sales tax, in this way, the richest nation in all history could combine the two absolute necessities: fiscal soundness and adequate defence; but no doubt this road would be uncomfortable to take.

Petitions

NEW YORK—Mr. Busson, the baker in Rafoussam, is alleged to have seized property belonging to Kamdem Louis.

Hubei Nur Afrah Helle and Usuf Mo-hammed, veterans of the Italian army, are still waiting to receive their veterans allowances.

The people of the village of Butialo, "which has a small and very poor population," dug a well. They claim the commissioner took it from them and gave it to the Kamdala Company. The people want it back.

Fominy Nyen Mfom, village head of Nyen, charges that another landholder, whose land "runs for miles and miles," is attempting to seize the only land owned by Fominy N. He writes to ask the "pathetic and generous attention" of the United Nations to investigate his case.

"May I ask your tenderness to delegate some inquiries there to find out the truth for you?" he said in his letter to the chairman of the visiting UN Mission to the Trust Territory of the Cameroons.

These are extracts from a few of the petitions which will be submitted to the first meeting for 1959 of the UN Trusteeship Council to be held this month. The council was formed in 1945 to look after the affairs of 10 colonial mandates which the UN inherited from the League of Nations. The administering powers are required to report annually to the United Nations on their stewardship and, among other things, to answer charges sent in by the local people. Last year there were almost 700 petitions and officials expect about the same this year.

Burke

These petitions are part of a quiet world-wide activity of the United Nations which seldom rates a paragraph in the western press. But which, for the Afro-Asian majority of mankind, is among the most important functions of the UN. The Communist nations, well aware of the sympathies of the Afro-Asians, also pay careful attention to trusteeship matters. A glance through the petitions shows why.

"Association Mutuelle Bahmnaise protests vigorously against arrest of patriots Kouam Thaumais Kamfina Noubissi Lidia and rape of three women by French soldiers."

Political, and often revolutionary, sentiments are expressed in perhaps the majority of the petitions and they reflect the rising tide of nationalism roiling across Africa.

For the administering authorities, a situation is often distasteful. Accustomed to absolute imperial authority, they find themselves compelled in the United Nations to listen to accusations and abuse from people who only a few years ago were respectful and "know their place." This is not easy for colonial powers such as Britain and France, especially since many accusations are exaggerated, many completely false. Englishmen and Frenchmen often blame the United Nations, sometimes bitterly, for the trouble which has been created. The majority, however, is that the revolution actually began in the last century with the Indian mutiny and the Boxer rebellion in China. The United Nations, far from causing revolution, has moderated it by providing a political safety valve, by providing hope for a peaceful solution.

For the United Nations as a whole, the African revolutionaries are likely to be among its strongest supporters.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Boy's Own Paper Is 80

LONDON—What ever happened to Boy's Own Paper? What became of the weekly mag devoted to adventure stories, sport, model-making, stamp-collecting and all the other things that gladden a boy's heart?

Unlike its rival, Chums, which I remember I always used to prefer of the two, B.O.P. still survives and at the turn of the year celebrated its 80th birthday.

But today it has nothing like the avid readership of former generations. When it first came out it was pounced on by the kids because it filled a big need for them.

Education was made compulsory in England in 1871 and in 1879 B.O.P. was put on the market to satisfy the thousands of boys then learning to read properly and wanting something on which to try out their reading ability.

Top by-lines like Arthur Conan Doyle and Jules Verne kept it a best seller, but those were the days before movies, radio, television and the countless other modern diversions. Now it has been forced to switch to a monthly to keep going.

An American rugby team has surprised everybody (including the U.S. players themselves) by defeating the teams they have been playing on a tour of this country. The side has been drawn from Dartmouth College in New Hampshire and the idea was for them to tackle various club sides here and undoubtedly lose but gain valuable experience of the finer points of the game in the process.

Instead, they're winning and at this time of writing have an unbeaten record in England. One paper described their latest victory as "one of the nastiest upsets since Bunker Hill."

A radical change in Britain's new "telephone kiosks" (call boxes)—you can breathe in them. The British have been long suffering in this regard. The red-painted, wrought-iron phone kiosks that are such a familiar part of the English scene were designed away back in the 1920s and they were built and in place before it was realized that nobody had thought much about ventilation. Result: for anything but a short call you invariably have to open up the door a bit to refresh the air.

The sleek new phone boxes, practically all glass, have proper ventilation. But we won't be seeing them in any great numbers for some time. They are merely being put into new towns and new building developments. Far too costly, says the post office, to scrap all the old ones and replace them with these new jobs.

Cash Register 'Musical' Needed to Soothe Society

6 Victoria Daily Times WEDNESDAY, JAN. 14, 1959

FORMAL CHANGE OF COMMAND for Victoria's 2455. Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron, RCAF (Aux.) took place in Bay Street Armouries recently when Sqdn. Ldr. David B. Ascott, right, took over from Sqdn. Ldr. R. D. Higgins, centre. Witness to formal transfer was squadron adjutant, Flt. Lt. S. G. Eales. Ceremony was well attended.

Aldermen Pounce On Found Money

A little-known clause in the amended Public Schools Act was seized with glee by inter-municipal committee Tuesday as a method of squeezing $83,186 out of the provincial government.

The clause provides that municipalities can charge the school board for services such as police and fire protection, roads and sewers.

The committee sent a letter to school board informing it the municipal charge will be

Buttle Lake 'Fire Sale' Coming Up

Sale of 38,646,000 board feet of salvageable timber, damaged by last summer's forest fire near Buttle Lake, will be announced soon, B.C. forestry officials said Tuesday.

The timber is spread throughout 2,000 acres of Strathcona Park. The officials say it must be cut to ward off insect infestation and disease which penetrates injured areas.

Sale will be announced jointly by the forest service and the recreation department.

SURVEYS

Aerial surveys of the burned areas have been completed. Throughout the province, 2,065,000 acres were wasted by fire.

The government spent $4,500,000 in fighting fires and industry spent another $1,000,000, according to estimates.

In Prince George area, 17 burned timber sales have already been conducted—742,500 board feet in all—at a cost of 75 cents per 100 cubic feet. This is minimum stumpage under the act, for sales of this nature. Six sales are under way in Chilliwack area.

Forest officials said the sales are a clean-up move but the "price is still economically sound."

B.C. Ship Company Sells Out

VANCOUVER (CP)—All floating assets of Union Steamship Ltd., oldest shipping company in B.C., have been sold to Northland Navigation Co. Ltd., according to Vancouver reports.

Real estate property at nearby Bowen Island, owned by Union was not included in the deal.

Northland operates a fleet of six freighters and passenger vessels in northern B.C. and Vancouver Island.

Wharf property of Union Steamships here is also included in the deal, although the actual water-frontage is leased from the CPR.

Union Steamships was purchased in 1955 by a Vancouver syndicate. Badly hit by a lengthy strike in 1955, the company has consistently lost money in recent years, and sold most of its fleet. Four ships remain.

During 70 years of business on the B.C. coast, Union pioneered many new routes. The company was started in 1880.

Plans for future operations by Northland were expected to be announced by the company today.

Music hath charms to soothe the savage beast, 'tis said, but it takes more than a few charms to soothe the box office, Victoria Symphony Society learned Tuesday.

The society is running $8,000 on the "loss" side of the ledger, so a week-long campaign will be held early in spring to sell season tickets.

FULL VALUE

"But this is no charity drive," temporary society chairman Douglas Abbott pointed out. "Ticket buyers will get full value for their money."

The canvass was outlined to the society's meeting by a committee headed by Arnold Webb.

The city directory will be attacked for names and special canvassing teams will be appointed.

STUDENT SHOWS

In other society activity: two student concerts were proposed, one to be held in February, the other in March. Cost will be borne by the society, out of a $10,000 Canada Council grant.

The meeting was told the women's committee expected to raise another $2,000 for the society, to follow $3,000 already contributed.

Attacked by Fox

MIDDLETOWN, N.Y. (AP)—Phillip Nugent, a coffee salesman, was attacked by a fox Tuesday as he was making a delivery here. Twice Nugent beat the animal back, sustaining scratches about the head, face and hands in the process. Nugent then dashed to his truck and ran down the animal.

DANNY THOMAS

confesses,

"I made a bargain with a saint!"

In The Saturday Evening Post this week you'll read one of the most remarkable stories ever told by an entertainer

A two-buck beer-garden entertainer, he was at the end of his rope, getting nowhere, ready to quit. Then, suddenly, he discovered a long-forgotten saint.

"Help me," he prayed, "to go to the top, and I'll build you a shrine for the poor, the helpless, the hopeless."

In an exclusive (and amazingly frank) interview by Pete Martin in this week's Post, you'll learn the miraculous way Danny Thomas' whole career suddenly changed from that moment on:

- how an unexpected trip to Chicago brought him a "sign"
- how, almost by chance, the right man caught his act
- the fantastic manner in which he was suddenly booked into a top New York night club
- how Milton Berle, whom he hardly knew, came to his rescue on opening night
- and how Danny Thomas today, tops on TV, is keeping his bargain with St. Jude

Don't miss Pete Martin's "I Call on Danny Thomas."

The Pope's Commandos

Why is the most influential order of the Roman Catholic Church also the most suspected and maligned? Here are little-known facts about the Jesuits, their enemies inside and outside the Church! Here, too, is the story of their training, their discipline, their colleges and universities, and how they follow their motto, "For the Greater Glory of God!"

It's a wonderful week in the Post . . . 7 articles, 4 stories, 2 serials, many cartoons and exciting photographs.

MODIFICATION HINTED BY DULLES

New U.S. German Plan?

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States may be willing to modify her policy on German reunification if she can get the agreement of West Germany and other allies to some revised formula.

The German situation is under review in the state department in preparation for new exchanges with Russia on the subject.

President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles expect to discuss Germany in talks with Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan Friday and Saturday.

Dulles gave the tipoff on possible modification of the U.S. stand at a press conference Tuesday. He said reunification of East and West Germany through free elections—the formula the Allies have backed for years—is not the only method by which East and West Germany could be merged. But he declined to specify what other methods were possible.

De Gaulle Pardons Rebels

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle Tuesday night announced a sweeping amnesty for nationalist rebels being held in Algerian prisons and some of their leaders detained in France.

The president also commuted to life imprisonment the death sentences passed on all categories of prisoners under French jurisdiction in cases where all legal recourse had been exhausted.

Messali Hadj, a veteran nationalist whose influence has waned during the six years that he has been detained in France, was ordered set free. He will not be permitted to return to Algeria, however.

Mohammed Ben Bella, a later-day nationalist who is listed as deputy premier in the Algerian government-in-exile, will be transferred to a fortress from a cell in the political prisoner section of the grim Sante prison in Paris.

The official announcement said that "certain persons, such as Ben Bella" would benefit from such a transfer. This was interpreted to mean that four of Ben Bella's colleagues, captured with him in 1956 when their chartered plane was forced to land at Algiers, would be given the same treatment. The plane was on a flight from Orococo to Tunis.

Information Minister Roger Frey also announced after a cabinet meeting—the first since de Gaulle took over as president and Michel Debre as premier—that 7,000 persons who have been held in camps in Algeria will be freed.

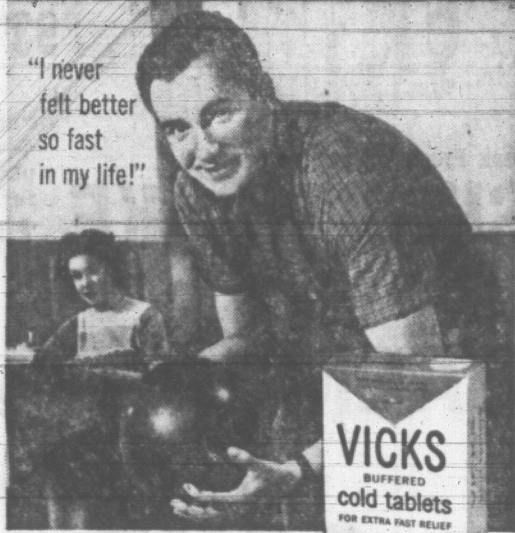

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer always has opposed any alteration of this formula, the essence of which is that a new all-German government would be brought into being only through free elections in the Eastern and Western sections.

Western officials have expressed confidence that in such elections Communist influence, now controlling East Germany, would be wiped out.

The Soviet government has insisted on a merger worked

DEANE FINLAYSON
"Secrets tottering"

FINLAYSON: 'Election Before September'

B.C. Tory leader Deane Finlayson will call voters to readiness for an early election when he speaks here Thursday.

He will address the Victoria association at 8 p.m. in the new party headquarters above the Poodle Dog Cafe on Government.

Mr. Finlayson told reporters he believes an election will be called "before September."

He gave as reasons, the "growing membership" of the Conservative party and the fact "the government is tottering over the present power policies. There is no leadership."

He said he recently met with district executives and a drive has been launched to increase party membership on Vancouver Island from the present 2,200 to 5,000.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The parents of Lisa Rose Chionchio appealed today for leniency toward the 43-year-old mother accused of kidnapping their daughter 2½ hours after her birth.

Both Frank Chionchio, 28, and his wife, Frances, 26, expressed the hope that Mrs. Jean Iavarone would not have to go to prison for kidnapping the newborn infant from a Brooklyn hospital and then keeping her in her one-room apartment for nine days.

"She is a poor, sick woman who did not realize the suffering she caused," Chionchio said. "Our home is open to her if she is allowed to visit our child."

Mrs. Chionchio, a school teacher, who has one other child, a one-year-old daughter, added: "She took good care of our baby and deserves to be able to see her."

Chionchio, a lawyer for the port of New York authority, reluctantly signed a complaint against Mrs. Iavarone Tuesday. He did so after authorities warned him that failure to sign the complaint might result in his arrest as a material witness in the case.

'BIG BROTHER' AWARD PRESENTED TO ROCKET

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson Tuesday night presented the Canadian Big Brother of the Year Award for 1959 to Maurice (Rocket) Richard.

Mr. Pearson, Big Brother of the Year in 1958, made the presentation to the National Hockey League player at a banquet of the Big Brothers Association, an organization devoted to helping underprivileged boys.

The award is made annually "to a distinguished Canadian who has consistently shown qualities which make him an ideal person on which a boy may model his life."

ALL-STAR VOTING

Marcel's Climb Took a While

The results of the mid-season voting for the National Hockey League's all-star team were greeted by the expected quota of anguished cries and outraged astonishment, but at least one selection met with general approval.

Burns Scores Again

TORONTO (CP)—Charlie Burns, who came back from a critical head injury to write a dazzling hockey success story last year, Tuesday was named Ontario's outstanding athlete of 1958 by the Ontario Sports Writers and Sportscasters Association.

A year ago, Burns was named outstanding player in the world hockey championship at Oslo when he helped Whitby Dunlops bring the title back to Canada. Last fall, he successfully made the jump to the National Hockey League with Detroit Red Wings.

The 47 association members participating in the voting made the 22-year-old forward a narrow choice over Ron Howell, native-born end of Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the Big Four Football Union.

Burns, a native of Detroit, who was brought up in Toronto, suffered a double skull fracture and blood clot on the brain in practice with Toronto Marlboros, of the Ontario Junior League, before the 1954-55 season.

For a time it was feared he might not recover. And when he did, after a delicate brain operation, doctors doubted he would ever play any sport again.

With a silver plate in his skull, he returned to hockey. First, he played in a Toronto industrial league when Marlboros, sponsored by Toronto Maple Leafs, of the NHL, declined to take a chance on another injury. Then he was accepted by Marlboros, wearing a special helmet for protection, and he helped them win the Canadian junior championship.

After his junior career he joined Whitby.

Fight for Ravine Swings to Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The state supreme court Tuesday ruled that the Chavez Ravine contract between the city of Los Angeles and the Dodgers baseball club is valid.

The opinion halts a taxpayer's court action to declare the contract and transfer of Chavez Ravine to the baseball team null and void.

The Dodgers want the ravine as the site of a new stadium.

It removes further legal obstacles to sale of Chavez Ravine to the Dodgers and the Old Double X Rejoins Ranks Of Unemployed

BOSTON (AP)—Jimmy Fox, who has not been rehired as a coach for 1959, Boston Red Sox general manager Joe Cronin said Tuesday.

Fox, discovered destitute in Florida last winter, was given a job with the Sox farm club in Minneapolis as a coach.

"I feel terrible about it," Cronin said. "I notified Fox last fall that Minneapolis was changing its policy regarding coaches."

He said Fox was given back to using player coaches. "It's an economic move, partly because of a fall-off in attendance last season at Minneapolis."

That was the choice of Detroit Red Wings' Rene Marcel Pronovost, a 28-year-old hard-rock rearguard, for one of the first team defensive spots.

His growth to all-star status has been slow but sure since he became a regular member of the Red Wings back in the 1951-52 season.

STARTED AS FORWARD

Pronovost, a native of Lac Tortue, Que., began his hockey life as a forward.

He attracted Detroit scouts as a left wing and centre, but when he turned professional at 19 with the Omaha Knights of the United States Hockey League it was as a defenceman.

Each year there has been a steady improvement both in defensive play and the effectiveness of his rushing attacks and this year, with five goals and 14 assists after 38 games, may be his best ever in a scoring way.

Detroit fans recognized him in 1956 when they awarded him their annual trophy as the team's most unsung player, but now Pronovost is coming into his own around the league.

SAWCHUK IN GOAL

Pronovost and goalie Terry Sawchuk were the Detroit selections as all-star ballots for the half-way mark when totaled. Three members of the league-leading Montreal Canadiens and one from New York Rangers also made the first team.

Left-winger Dickie Moore of Montreal led voting with 86 of a possible 90 points while other Canadiens named were centre Henri Richard and defenceman Tom Johnson.

The right-wing berth went to Andy Bathgate as the Ranger sharpshooter replaced perennial all-stars Maurice Richard of Montreal and Gordie Howe of Detroit on the dream team.

Superior Court Judge Arnold Praeger had granted an injunction against the contract, approved by the voters in a June 3 referendum last year.

The city then asked the state supreme court to issue an order preventing further interference.

Tuesday's decision is in the form of a writ restraining the superior court from enforcing Judge Praeger's injunction.

It paves the way for the June election results to be certified and thus made effective.

Quebec Club Continues Operations

QUEBEC (CP)—The Quebec Aces announced they will continue to operate in the four-team Quebec Hockey League.

Dr. Bruce Crutchfield, Aces' president, who last week said they needed $10,000 before Jan. 15 if they were to finish the season, made the announcement after a special meeting of club officials. He said that players' salaries, a week behind when the plea for funds was made, were paid Tuesday.

He did not say whether the club received a guarantee of the $10,000 from some source. Dr. Crutchfield indicated only that the management had been encouraged by the response to their appeal and had decided to continue operations.

Reports last week from the other centres in the league—Kamloops, Penticton and Vernon—indicated attendance was increasing slightly and that the league would get back on its feet. Penticton has had a crowd of 2,500 since then.

There was no indication Tuesday of what might happen if the ticket blitz is not successful, but the mayor and several businessmen have expressed the opinion that hockey will not fold here.

The Okanagan Senior Hockey League Club, last season Allan Cup finalists and still sporting memories of this season's successful Russian tour, has an 18-point lead in first place in the standings, but its financial situation has driven it to a co-operative operation.

It was learned Monday night that to the surprise of many Kelowna residents—that the team became a player co-operative Jan. 6 and since then each player had received only $33.33.

The club has played to an average attendance of 900 this season, compared with 1,400 a year earlier, and their last two games have seen fewer than 900 persons attend.

At a meeting Monday night among players and members of various service clubs, and under chairmanship of Mayor R. E. Parkinson, a target of 1,000 sales of ticket blocks to Packers' last nine home games was set. Each is to sell at $10 and service clubs, hockey enthusiasts and club members are to be asked to sell them.

A Man and 19,000 Maids

WASHINGTON (AP)—The first edition of Who's Who of American Women contains the names of 19,000 prominent women—and one man.

Shirley Povich, sports columnist for the Washington Post made it clear today he's not angry about being included. In fact, he's rather used to that sort of thing. "I now belong to the most exclusive club in America," he said cheerfully.

Povich, whose unmistakably masculine face adorns his daily "This Morning" column, often gets mail addressed to Miss Shirley Povich.

Once he was invited to join the League of American Pen-Women, and the application blank asked such questions as: "How do you get along with the men in your profession?" Povich replied, "I simply try to be one of the boys."

Bud Figures in Plans Now; Lifts Spokes Past Cougars

Overtime Goal Beats Royals; Spokane Plays Here Tonight

Buddy Bodman wasn't counted on to play an important part in Spokane's debut in the Western Hockey League this season, but the rookie winger has personally pushed Victoria Cougars down into fourth place in the league's Coast Division.

Bodman, who played with Spokane in the amateur Western International Hockey League last season, didn't get his chance in professional company late until December, but he has fitted into the Spokes' machine like an old pro.

He fired the goal that gave the Spokes a 5-4 victory over Victoria in a four-point battle at Spokane Jan. 4 and Tuesday night lifted the squad past the Cougars into third place when he scored at 6:31 of a sudden-death overtime to beat the Royals, 4-3, at New Westminster.

Bodman's overtime tally, his second of the game, set the stage for a battle for second place when the Cougars and Spokes tangle at Memorial Arena tonight. Spokes can move into sole possession of the runner-up spot, one point in front of Vancouver, if they can come up with a victory.

The Cougars, on the other hand, can earn a share of second place and climb back ahead of Spokane if they can nail down a triumph.

Bodman also drew an assist Tuesday night as the Bodman-Bell-Ron Attwell line carried most of the Spokane scoring load. Bell and Walt Bradley scored the other Spokane goals.

Scoring for the Royals were Gary Collins, Dick Van Impe and Hugh Barlow.

Flyer Rookie Finds Scoring Range

Emile Francis, who held off the desperate Royals with some great goaltending in the third period, figured in some added excitement, tangling with Gene Ubrlaco in a first-period hassle which also included Bodman and New Westminster's Pete Wright.

Cougar coach Pat Egan expects Gordie Wilson back in action tonight, but hadn't decided on his forward line this morning. Winger Bill Forhan is due to join the club Thursday and Egan is dicker to obtain another forward and a defenceman to bolster the Victoria roster.

In other WHL games played Tuesday night, Vancouver missed a chance to consolidate its grip on second place by dropping a 5-1 decision at Edmonton, and Winnipeg Warriors thumped the Saskatoon Quakers, 7-3, before 3,413 Winnipeg fans.

Starting their second invasion of the Prairie Division, Canucks found a frigid reception at Edmonton, where 3,390 fans watched rookie Dave Amadio spark the Flyers.

Amadio, who had scored only four goals in earlier games this season, rapped in three tallies and drew an assist on a fourth. The other Edmonton goals came from Frank Roggveien, a defenceman who was filling in as a forward.

Milan Marcetta scored for Canucks.

At Winnipeg, goals for the winners were scored by Ray Brunel, Bill Mosienko, Barrie Ross, Dick Lamoureux, Ed Zembra, Gerry Brisson and Pete Kapusta.

Saskatoon marksmen were Les Lilley, Gord Labossienne and Bob Robinson.

Goalie Ray Mikulan, who may be replaced by Al Rollins in Winnipeg, Friday night, against Vancouver, stopped 23 shots for the winners.

IN CRICKET TEST

May, Cowdrey Keep English Hopes Alive

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)—Peter May and Colin Cowdrey today battled England into a good position to salvage a draw at the close of the fifth day's play in the third cricket test match against Australia.

May and Cowdrey combined for an unbeaten fourth-wicket stand of 114 and carried England's second-innings total to 178 for three. The stand put England 40 runs ahead with seven wickets still standing and one day left to play.

England scored 219 in the first innings and Australia totalled 357 in its turn at bat. Australia won the first two tests.

England was faced with possible defeat when its first three batsmen were out for 64 runs today. But May and Cowdrey then took over and hit 52 runs in their first hour together.

SCORING CUT

Later, the defensive bowling and fielding of the Australians cut their scoring—but at the close they had steered England to the brink of safety. Their stand had covered 177 minutes. May scored 63 and Cowdrey had 50.

'WHO'S WHO' BONER

A Man and 19,000 Maids

As for Who's Who of American Women, Povich corrected he didn't try very hard to correct the mistaken impression of the publishers.

He said he didn't bother to reply when he received an advance notice of the listing, which showed him married to Ethel Povich. He is the father of three children.

The new reference book is published by the same Chicago firm that has compiled Who's Who in America for many years.

Povich's newspaper, in its edition today, played the story of his selection on the front page of the women's section. A photo of Povich was displayed prominently, surrounded by photos of such well-known women as Marilyn Monroe, Elizabeth Taylor and Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower, all included in the reference book with Povich.

SPORTS PARADE

New Ring Era

By JACK CUDDY
NEW YORK (UPI) — Boxing had its Golden Age under promoter Tex Rickard, its first travelling era under Mike Jacobs and its first TV epoch under Jim Norris.

Now, Uncle Sam apparently lifts the curtain on a new period—the span of freedom.

Under the anti-monopoly decrees affirmed Monday by the supreme court, big-time fighters can no longer be shackled to promoters by exclusive contracts. And independent promoters are free to bid not only for the services of those fighters, but also for choice arenas.

FREE AT LAST

The curtain-lifting comes at a time when we have a young world heavyweight champion, Floyd Patterson, who has been screaming for liberty—freedom to fight without interference from the International Boxing Club.

Now that the IBC clubs of New York and Illinois have been ordered dissolved and their owners divorced completely from Madison Square Garden, it will be mighty interesting to see what Patterson does and how he does it.

At 23, Floyd is just a "baby" compared to the fighter-of-the-year, light heavyweight champion Archie Moore—in his roaring forties—the same Archie whom Floyd knocked out in the fifth round for the vacant heavyweight crown at Chicago, Nov. 30, 1956.

MEAL TICKETS

Rickard had Jack Dempsey, Jacobs had Joe Louis, Norris had Rocky Marciano for a while. Now, the independent promoters—wherever they are—have Patterson.

And what have they got? No one knows for sure. Manager Gus d'Amato says: "Floyd will hold the title 10 years. And he'll ultimately be recognized as the greatest heavyweight champion of all time."

That's a big order, and d'Amato's critics claim it'll never be filled, even if Cus continues to let Floyd defend against "amateurs." For they point out that the champion was on the floor in his two latest defenses against Pete Rademacher and Texan Roy Harris.

However, it is recalled that Floyd rose and knocked out both Rademacher and Harris—just as Dempsey, Louis and Marciano did to certain opponents who had floored them.

Weather Disrupts Replay Schedules

LONDON (Reuters) — The Football Association Cup third-round tie between Middlesbrough and Birmingham City, scheduled for today, has been postponed until Jan. 19 because of icy conditions.

The replay between Preston North End and Derby County, also to have been played tonight, was postponed because of fog. No new date has been set.

Bardstown ran the mile and an eighth in 1:49 and earned $39,460 to make his winnings $54,060 this year. He won the Orange Bowl handicap, worth $14,600, a week earlier.

ROYAL YACHT TO SAIL IN VICTORIA WATERS

The royal yacht Bluebottle is to participate in a series of races in Montreal, Toronto, Vancouver and Victoria during the summer, it was announced today.

R. C. Stevenson, honorary president of the Canadian Yachting Association, said no details of the visit of the dragon yacht had been settled yet.

GOALS 'DIME A DOZEN'

Milburn Picks Up Five Cents Worth

Goals were a dime a dozen at Memorial Arena Tuesday night as the crowd of the Victoria Commercial Hockey League season—less than 600 fans—was treated to the biggest scoring spree of the campaign.

Vics ended up with a baker's dozen to consolidate their hold on second place, defeating Shell Aces, 13-6, and Navy extended its unbeaten streak through a 12th game with a 7-3 win over Army, making it a total of 29 goals in the twin-bill.

Jack Milburn had a fifth day in the sniping department, collecting a half dozen tallies to lead Vics to their win.

EXCITING TUSSELE

Navy had an exciting tussle with the Soldiers before sailing away another victory with a three-goal outburst in the final period.

Army staged a rally to pull within one goal, at 4-3, midway in the third session before Johnny Boyd, Cliff Uhren and Neil Standley fired scoring shots in the final three minutes to wrap up the decision.

BLANK QUILTS ARMY

Resignation Big Mystery

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP)—Army today began the long quest for a new football coach and athletic director while failing to unearth a clue on the mystery of why a coach on top of the world

Earl (Red) Blaik, fresh from an undefeated season and the toast of the coaching set for his "lonely end" offense last year, resigned Tuesday, effective Feb. 15, his 62nd birthday. Blaik had held the job 18 years.

His only reason:

"This is the proper time to withdraw from college sports, as to overstay a coaching career is unthinkable."

COMPLETE SURPRISE

To a man, Army brass said they were caught flatfooted. Only a little over a month ago after his team licked Navy, Blaik said that his lonely end offense—where one end is sent far out on the flank and doesn't even take part in the huddles—had merely scratched the surface.

Why did Blaik quit?

There are several theories:

1. His health. It has been said that he has a bad stomach and the steadily increasing pressures of the game are getting to be too much.
2. He was at odds with Gen. Gar Davidson, academy superintendent. This he has denied.
3. He was at the end of his rope trying to convince the brass to permit Army to play post-season bowl games and thus gain additional prestige.
4. He wanted to be able to have prospective players tutored before taking the entrance examinations just as Navy has been doing.

HAWKS' HERO NOW

Lindsay Loves Changing Tune

CHICAGO (UPI) — Nobody in the National Hockey League has been praised more sweetly as a hero nor booed more vigorously as a bum than Ted Lindsay of the Chicago Black Hawks.

At the moment, Lindsay is getting the hero treatment from the fans who have watched the Black Hawks orbit near the top.

The role is not new to Lindsay, a scrappy 160-pounder who spent the better part of his 15 pro seasons helping the Detroit Red Wings dominate the league.

But it contrasts sharply to the "bum" of last year who was playing his first campaign with the Black Hawks. Lindsay, jeered by the fans, "didn't give a damn, he was over the hill, he was too preoccupied with the Hockey Players' Union."

Lindsay scored only 15 goals in the entire season. With the current campaign half-finished, he already has a dozen and is credited with being the driving force of the Hawks' "old man line," consisting of Tod Sloan, 31; Ed Litzenberger, 26, and the 33-year-old Lindsay.

What accounts for the big change?

"Don't ask me," Lindsay said. "I know things are clicking for me this year and they weren't last year. Maybe there's just a contagious spirit of winning on the club this season."

SKATING BETTER

Coach Rudy Pilous said Lindsay is "skating better" this season.

"Sometimes a player in explainably skates better in one year than in another," Pilous said. "His play picks up and that's the case with Lindsay."

"Lindsay is a hard loser." Pilous added, "we lost so many games last year that he may have been in a continual state of discouragement."

Pilous summed up Lindsay as a "valuable player I wouldn't want to do without."

The Sloan-Lindsay-Litzenberger unit is Chicago's top production line, with Eddie's 19 goals and 23 assists good enough for fourth place in the league's scoring race.

IN CITY TOURNAMENT

Getz' Play Impressive

Reidar Getz, one of the most versatile young athletes developed in Victoria for many years, is stealing the spotlight at the city badminton championships at Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club.

Getz, who has been thumping shuttles only since last September, took former Canadian junior champion Harvey Hurd to three games Monday before bowing out of the men's open singles bracket of the annual tourney.

Tuesday night, he teamed with Jill Kelly to power his way to five victories to reach the semifinal round of the open mixed doubles competition.

Four of the matches went to three games and in the quarterfinal round, Getz and Mrs. Kelly sidelined the strong team of Bob and Marlene Hunt by 13-15, 15-6, 15-2 scores.

MAJOR UPSET

Biggest upset of the tourney was registered in the mixed doubles Tuesday when Rene Wells and Eric Hiberson tripped the first-seed duo of Jim Wells and Sharon Whitaker, who had chalked up wins in the Brentwood and VLTBC tourneys this season, the first in which they have played as a team.

Hiberson, who teamed with Maureen Bray to win the mixed doubles title last season, and Mrs. Wells, triumphed by a 15-12, 15-9 count.

Competition continues tonight at the Amphion Street hall with play in A, B and C division of the women's doubles. Semifinals in all events are scheduled for Friday night.

Tuesday's results in B and C mixed doubles and tonight's draws:

"B" CLASS

Ella Coolter and Dunc Tolson defeated Leanne Kesteven and Jack LeQueene, 15-8, 15-13.
Roger and Virginia Lindal defeated Barbara Ford and Ben Karadimas, 15-17, 17-16, 15-4.
Marilyn Bassett and Ray Headley defeated Pam Mether and Jim Masie, 8-15, 15-3, 15-7.
(Other semi-finalist still to be decided.)

"C" CLASS

Owen Wharton and Bill Powell defeated F. Hargie and Art Rumbay, 15-4, 15-12, 15-11.
Joan and Don McCormick defeated Jean Parby and Ivan Goodmanson, 15-13, 15-11.

Missing City Woman Believed Drowned

A 50-year-old Victoria woman is believed to have drowned after falling from a CPR ferry bound for Vancouver last Thursday.

The woman is identified as Miriam Bell, of Wayside House, a nursing home at 550 Foul Bay, from which she was missed early Thursday afternoon.

The missing woman was subject of inquiries by city police and the RCMP since Friday, and Vancouver RCMP are now handling the investigation. She is described as having dark eyes and complexion, weighing about 120 pounds and is five feet, four inches in height.

A purse containing $69.50 and identification in the name of Miriam Lamb Bell, was found on the main afterdeck of the vessel Princess Joan as it entered Vancouver harbor under the First Narrows Bridge Thursday afternoon. Passengers are not permitted access to that part of the ship.

Police have made inquiries regarding the woman's whereabouts, so far without success.

City Youth 'Stuck' Twice

Eighteen-year-old Grant Hunter, 1052 Dunsmuir, caught when the car he took without the owner's consent stuck in a ditch, was fined $75 in city police court Tuesday.

He was fined an additional $30 for driving without a licence.

Hunter was charged with the first offence Monday when police said he took a car owned by Gee Kee Chew from 2540 Blanshard at 12:15 a.m. Sunday and drove it on Craigflower Road.

Court was told the car was damaged when recovered near Gorge Vale Golf Course, but Hunter denied causing any damage.

The accused said he tried to pull another car from the ditch and became stuck.

"You've had a day in jail to think this over. I hope it's not going to happen again," Magistrate William Ostler said.

HIS 85TH YEAR

Happy Day For Trumpeter

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

A surprise birthday party was held Tuesday for Trumpet Major George A. Jacques, celebrating his 85th anniversary at home at 891 Lavender Avenue. Not until his old buddies stepped into the trim living room and shouted "Happy birthday, George!" did this fine old soldier know what his good wife had planned for him. "I wanted to make it the happiest birthday he has ever had in his life," says motherly blue-eyed Mrs. Jacques. "He has been through some very hard times and he deserves all the fun he gets."

Trumpet Major Jacques is partially blind as the result of being buried in a shell hole in the First World War. He lost his sight completely during the thirties but the sight of one eye was half-restored by a miracle of surgery.

"I went through hell," the old soldier said, "and one day I told the doctor I would rather be dead than the way I was—not only blind but suffering acute pain."

"The doctor promised to do all he could and an operation was arranged. It lasted four days and when they took the bandages off I could see the nurse standing at the foot of my bed."

Plays Three Military Instruments

Trumpet Major Jacques plays three military instruments—the trumpet, cornet and bugle—and on Armistice Day every year he blows the Reveille at St. Martin's in the Fields, Saanich.

Sitting in his favorite armchair, he gave me a sample of his skill on the cornet with a soulful rendering of The Last Post. Then came "The Sunshine of Your Smile" and other old favorites.

"He has taught dozens of boys to play these instruments," Mrs. Jacques said proudly, "and now he is teaching his grandson," (18-year-old Billy McCutcheon.) One great advantage in blowing brass is to have your own teeth. Trumpet Major Jacques has every one of them, as he proudly displayed. How do you make your teeth last 85 years? Why, by chewing tobacco.

"I've never smoked but I've always chewed tobacco," he said. "It's the only way to fight off decay."

Mr. Jacques has another pet pride. He says he was the only trumpet major to be made a warrant officer first class in the First World War.

He came to Victoria on his retirement in 1930, and during the period when he was totally blind, put up a fence in front of his home.

"It nearly killed me," he said, "but I was determined to keep going . . ."

Father Riding Master for Mounties

Trumpet Major Jacques was born in India and taken to England by his parents as a small boy. Then they moved to Regina, where his father, also George Jacques, became riding master of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police riding school.

George Jacques, Jr., was apprenticed for seven years as a coppersmith by the Canadian Pacific Railway. After that he went to the Yukon as a member of the field force there, and then to Winnipeg, where in 1909 he joined the Royal Mounted Rifles, later re-named the Royal Dragoon Horse and finally the Strathcona Horse.

3 AWARDS EARNED

During his 34 years of soldiering in war and peace Mr. Jacques won the long service medal, the good conduct medal and the coveted award for meritorious services.

One of his old war comrades is Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C., now Canada's minister of defence.

"Like most old soldiers I've had many good comrades and lost them," Mr. Jacques said. "I'm happy to know George Pearkes is still going strong."

During the First World War Mr. Jacques suffered another setback when part of his right arm was shot off.

"They wanted to amputate my arm," he said, "but I wouldn't let them. So they grafted some flesh from my leg onto my arm and I've been using it ever since."

Today's CAREER SOLDIER in the Middle East

The Canadian soldier in the Middle East is proudly and efficiently doing a job of vital importance to the peace of the world. Canadian soldiers are members of the truce supervisory teams along the Arab-Israel border, the United Nations observer group in Lebanon and form a large part of the United Nations Emergency Force in the Gaza Strip and Sinai peninsula. In UNEF he is referred to by his comrades of other countries as "the real backbone of UNEF".

The soldier himself in our modern Canadian Army has the things that a man appreciates most — job security — good pay — a healthy outdoor life with variety and openings for advancement. His greatest satisfaction however comes from the sure knowledge that his is an important role in the growing responsibilities of Canada.

Woman Throws Knife at Bandit

SURREY—A woman who threw a carving knife at a masked holdup man was wounded slightly in the chest Tuesday night when he fired two bullets at her from a sawed-off .22-calibre automatic rifle.

Mrs. Frances Abernethy challenged the man when he entered the Pines Cafe, wearing a silk stocking over his head.

She grabbed a butcher knife and threw it within inches of the bandit's ear when he demanded money.

He fired twice. One of the bullets inflicted a minor wound which was treated on the scene. She did not go to hospital.

Police scoured the area on foot and then threw up roadblocks in their search for the man, described as young, five-foot-eight and wearing a black leather jacket.

An RCMP tracking dog was called to the scene.

Boy Impaired

VANCOUVER — A 15-year-old boy was fined $25 Tuesday in Burnaby juvenile court on each of two charges of driving while impaired and possession of liquor. An RCMP constable who knew his age arrested the boy Saturday and found a half-empty-liquor bottle in the car.

IWA Talks Fail

VANCOUVER — A bid to end a strike of 1,200 southern Interior lumber workers, now in its eighth week, has failed. Both sides said Tuesday there is no prospect of new talks.

The talks headed by provincial labor department mediators broke off late Monday night when employer representatives declined to grant a reduced wage demand by the International Woodworkers of America.

Highway Reopened

TRAIL—The Highways Department advised Tuesday night that the treacherous Cascade Highway had been opened to travel again after a closure of three days. Heavy snow and rain kept the road impassable.

Pay Hike Asked

VANCOUVER (CP)—Wage increases averaging nine per cent are being sought by Vancouver's 4,125 civic employees. If approved they would add $1,500,000 to the city's wage bill.

$22,184 WORK ON FARMERS' LANDING

Wharf Project Goes Ahead

Contract for $22,184 has been let for the rebuilding of the Farmer's Landing in Nanaimo, it was announced in Ottawa this week.

It calls for removal and disposal of the existing public wharf and approach ramp, and construction of a new approach and wharf on a creosoted timber pile foundation.

A log gangway float and three new mooring floats, measuring up to 110 feet in length, will replace the floats now in use.

FINISHED MAY 23

Harbor Pile Driving Co. of Nanaimo was awarded the contract, with a specified completion date of May 23. The landing is popular among commercial fishermen and visiting yachtsmen.

At the same time details were announced of the new ferry wharf at Sidney, being built by Pacific Pile Driving Co. Ltd. of Victoria on a contract of $266,710, and to be completed by Aug. 17 this year.

This project will include an automobile compound, timber approach and wharf sections, transfer span with apron, two cradle dolphins, four 55-pile dolphins, two seven-pile protection dolphins and two three-pile dolphins. It will also include a toll booth and pedestrian waiting room.

CAR COMPOUND

The automobile compound will measure 250 feet by 450 feet in area. The approach will be of creosoted fir pile, and creosoted glued laminated and creosoted sawn timber construction.

The wharf section measuring 48 feet 6 inches by 49 feet, and nine feet by 45 feet, will have asphaltic concrete surfaces. The transfer span, which is to be erected on the new structure, will be of steel Parker-type truss and measure 24 by 80 feet, while the apron will be 15 ft. long.

It is to be complete with steel lifting beams, rockers, machinery beams, gantry towers, and steel pipe pile and frame foundations. Machinery materials, and motors for the operation of the transfer span and apron will be supplied and installed.

Cradle dolphins will be of creosoted fir piling, creosoted untreated sawn fir timber, and ironbark rubbing strips.

The toll booth, which will measure 4 feet six inches by 19 feet, will be erected on a concrete foundation, while the pedestrian waiting room is to measure 20 by 30 feet.

Signs and regulating traffic devices, and electrical circuits for lighting and power, will be supplied and installed in the new work.

School Vote Feb. 19 For Gulf Islanders

GANGES — Taxpayers of School District 64, which includes the major Gulf Islands, will vote Feb. 19 on a $26,700 referendum, school trustees decided at their first regular meeting of the year.

The referendum, now approved by the education department, asks for authority to raise the money for capital expenditures throughout the district during the next three years.

Details will be contained in a leaflet to be published by the board. Copies will reach ratepayers early in February.

DANE RE-ELECTED

A. D. Dane, trustee from Fulford Harbor for the past six years, was re-elected by acclamation to his third consecutive term as chairman. Only newcomer to the board is G. S. Humphreys of Ganges, who replaces J. A. Green.

G. M. Heinekey was appointed convener of a committee to include M. H. Gardner and Mr. Humphreys, that was ordered to revise the scale of rentals for Mahon Hall, and to facilitate its use by smaller organizations in the community.

PORT ALBERNI will have no tax increase nor budgeted deficit in 1959, Mayor Loran Jordan told city council finance committee this week. Preliminary list of expenditures totals $1,500,000, he said.

Maffeo to Call Conference On Lake Access

NANAIMO — Mayor Pete Maffeo told Nanaimo Kiwanis Club he will call a meeting to discuss access to the 30 lakes lying within a 10-mile radius of Nanaimo.

Speaking of their value as tourist attractions, he said "the chance of a lifetime" exists right now to pursue the subject, with Earle Westwood of Nanaimo as recreation conservation minister, and Ted Barsby, also of Nanaimo, president of the B.C. Game Club.

60-Day Term

New Heating Plan Unveiled

By HAL MALONE
Times Business Editor

Power, copper and a university professor are in the business news today.

In Montreal, Canadian Cur-tiss-Wright took the drapes off a revolutionary heating system—Thermac.

Thermac operates by gener-ating heat from electricity

in elements which are em-bedded in a storage pile of specially formulat-ed material.

The material retains a ad-ditional heat en-ergy for release later when the elements are not "charg-ing" the pile.

In New Westminster, Lieut. Governor Frank Ross today

officially opened Western Cop-per Mills Ltd., the first copper mill in western Canada.

The mill is located on An-nacis Island, Lord Grosvenor's financially healthy piece of real estate in the south arm of the Fraser.

Company president Richard Reiner expects the mill to produce annually about 36,000 pounds of copper and copper alloy products. Covering five acres of a 10-acre site, the mill will employ 350 men on a round-the-clock operation.

In Vancouver, Leslie Wong, professor of commerce at Uni-versity of B.C., said Canadians rely "too much" on govern-ment fiscal policy to produce economic stability and secu-rity.

INITIATIVE NEEDED

He told the Purchasing Agents' Association of B.C. "more initiative should be shouldered by individuals."

"I think we have learned that broad economic powers left in hands of governments do not necessarily achieve in a fair and equitable way the things we want in life."

While old age pensions and other benefits are desirable," he said, "the climate for per-sonal savings may be fostered and individuals encouraged to save on their own."

Professor Wong may be right.

People too often forget that increased social welfare and old age benefits are paid for by the same people who com-plain bitterly about heavy gov-ernment spending.

MARKET SUMMARY

Industrials Reached New Record Highs

Industrials dominated the Toronto stock market today as they pushed their index to record highs amid the fastest trading this month.

Base metals were slightly easier in the final hour but had a gain. Golds and western oils were down.

Profit-taking continued today on the New York exchange, leaving the market moderately lower.

At Toronto 40 speculative mines traded 100,000 shares. Can-Erin was the leader with a 420,000 - share turnover.

Gained 12 cents at 73 cents, Macdonald was ahead 10 cents at 40 cents.

Among industrials steels showed the best wins. Most groups were mixed, however, with finance companies record-ing some of the bigger losses.

Steel Company of Canada added 1 1/4 at 74 and Algoma was up 1/4 at 31 1/2.

AT NEW YORK gains in the Canadian list included Alumin-ium Ltd. and Canadian Pac-ific. Distillers-Seagrams and International Nickel lost.

Fargo Oil lost 1/2 and Scurry-Rainbow Oil 3-16 on the American stock exchange. Other Canadian issues were mainly unchanged.

AT MONTREAL prices were mixed in active trading today on the stock exchange.

In the refining oils and pipelines Canadian Oil gained 1/2 at 28 1/2. Interprovincial Pipeline declined 1/2 at 51 and McCall Oil was off 1/2 at 69.

AT LONDON stocks continued firm today. The gilt-edged market's short-dated issues were in demand and ahead but undated issues lost on profit taking.

In foreign dealings, German bonds were higher. Canadian Pacific lost in an otherwise higher Canadian section.

Stocks dropped following Wall Street's decline.

SCATHING INDICTMENT DUE

'Progressive Education' Hit

A burning indictment of the present school system probably will be made by Greater Victoria municipalities in a joint brief to the royal commission on education here. It may charge "progressive education" with creating juvenile delinquents, and seek: Abolition of kindergartens in public schools; elimination of some courses such as health and personal development; more intelligible report cards and competition in the classroom; reductions in the number of school supervisors, and elimination of games during physical education periods.

These are the expressed sentiments of Ald. A. I. Curtis chosen Tuesday, with Saanich Reeve George Chatterton, by intermunicipal committee to prepare a civic brief to the commission when it convenes Jan. 22 in Oak Bay High.

DRAFT REPORT MADE

Ald. Curtis, who spent 14 years on school board including four as chairman, was appointed by Victoria, Oak Bay and Esquimalt delegations to the committee to represent them after they heard a draft copy prepared by him.

Reeve Chatterton was appointed after he insisted there should be more than one person preparing the actual brief. The committee will hold a special meeting to consider the brief, after the two men have prepared it, before submitting it to the commission.

Excerpts from the suggested brief by Ald. Curtis, likely to reappear in the final draft in some form, are:

"We believe that in these rapidly changing times the philosophy of education... there is no doubt, however, in our opinion that the three R's must always be the basis of any school teaching."

"We feel there are two or three subjects which could well be dispensed with, an example being H and P. D. We do not say necessarily that this course is valueless but we do submit that with an overcrowded calendar in every stage of a student's school life this, and one or two other subjects, should be carefully reviewed with the aim of dropping them."

NO TIME FOR GAMES

"We are in favor of a good physical training program in our schools but submit that this should be restricted to calis-thenics; that the playing of games during a P.E. period should be dispensed with."

"It is our opinion that the permission presently given to a school board to operate 'primary' or 'kindergarten' classes should be withdrawn. This... engages experienced primary teachers who should be devoting their efforts to the recognized primary grades, particularly in view of the present shortage of experienced teachers... this type of class is one that might very well be left to private enterprise."

"We most strongly oppose the present system of 'progressive' education which encourages 'self-expression'."

"We believe that this philosophy is a contributing cause to our present wave of what is termed juvenile delinquency."

"We believe that of all places, the school should be a bulwark of strict discipline. How can a man subject himself to discipline and to a recognition of lawful authority if he is not taught as a child to obey the authority of the teacher?"

COMPETITION NEEDED

"We also are of the opinion that the lack of academic competition in our schools is a serious error."

"Report cards do not show the standing in the class of the individual in case it would discourage the poor student. Children can only be graded with symbols which neither the parent nor the child can understand."

"We submit that most of life's experiences are competitive and the child leaving

WAITING TO ENTER B.C. Court of Appeal Tuesday were these eight Victoria and Vancouver lawyers, part of 32 who spent almost two hours helping five judges prepare the calendar for the court's session due to end late in February. Civil cases only, plus the Sommers-Gray bribery and conspiracy appeal, will be heard in Victoria; criminal appeals will be in Vancouver.

DATE-FIXING SESSION IN COURT OF APPEAL

Judges, Lawyers Grapple With Gaps

By DAVID COWLISHAW

Mr. Justice C. H. O'Halloran rubbed his chin for a moment, then unleashed a quick smile at the middle-aged lawyer standing before him.

"You say you want this case heard in Vancouver because both counsel will be in Vancouver at the time—haven't you a better reason than that?"

"Well, no, my lord. My instructions . . ."

SUITABLE GROUNDS

"You had better get some more instructions," the judge said. "We can't have Victoria cases transferred to Vancouver without good cause. I have said it before—there must be suitable grounds before a case can be transferred to Vancouver. Who's next?"

The exchange—conducted with cordiality and good humor—was one of many heard in B.C. Court of Appeal in Victoria Tuesday when five judges and 32 lawyers set about fixing dates for 59 civil appeals (21 are ready for hearing so far) to be heard before the court winds up in the last week in February.

NO GAPS

For almost two hours the robed practitioners of the law, watched by four spectators, wrestled with the calendar, trying to form a list as compact and "gap-less" as possible.

One difficulty—that popped up at least three times was the need for one lawyer in a case to be at a court elsewhere in the province on an appeal date sought by the opposing lawyer. Several lawyers asked for their cases to be heard in Vancouver.

Another lawyer wanted an appeal transferred to Vancouver "because both counsel in the case live on Vancouver Island."

CHUCKLES

This was construed as "an attempt by counsel to get off Vancouver Island" and brought delighted chuckles from the five-judge bench.

"That's not a very good reason," commented Mr. Justice O'Halloran, senior judge. (The court is headed by Chief Justice A. C. Des Brisay, but he was in Vancouver and his place was taken by the next senior judge.)

One lawyer asked for an appeal hearing "as late as possible because we (both parties in the case) are discussing a settlement."

Another lawyer began addressing the bench (termed "speaking to the list") by saying, "I am asking for a special date, but he was quickly interrupted by Mr. Justice O'Halloran with:

"I can't give it to you, I'm afraid."

The court opened at 11 a.m. when Mr. Justice O'Halloran took his seat in the centre of the seven-chair bench. To his left were Mr. Justice H. W. Davey and Mr. Justice F. A. Sheppard; to his right Mr. Justice H. I. Bird and Mr. Justice J. M. Coady.

Besides the Chief Justice, other member of the court is Mr. Justice Sidney Smith.

Mr. Justice O'Halloran began by declaring that the criminal appeals—(there are 63) will be heard by the court's second division in Vancouver beginning today, the civil cases in Victoria.

SOMMERS' APPEAL

The Victoria appeal court will also hear the appeal "Regina versus Robert Sommers (former lands and forests minister) and (timber executive) H. Wilson Gray."

The Sommers-Gray appeal is set for Feb. 16 and expected to last a week.

The B.C. Court of Appeal is the final court of appeal in the province. A sentence may be appealed to the Supreme Court of Canada, but that is a person's last recourse (although a sentence to hang may be commuted by the Minister of Justice to life imprisonment.) Until a few years ago an appeal could be lodged before the Privy Council in Britain, but this practice has been discontinued.

'Artful Simplicity' For Text Book Car

We can think of no more appropriate subject to launch the 1959 series of motor columns than to pay tribute to, and review the history of, a famous and brilliant small car which is entering its tenth year of production in virtually unchanged form—the Morris Minor.

No more positive proof of the brilliance of this car's conception is necessary than to point to many other makes of similarly small car of much more recent vintage, none of which surpasses the Morris Minor in all those desirable qualities by which the performance, grace, road-behavior, and economy of running are judged.

In reaching its tenth birthday, the Morris Minor is at the half-way mark of production records established by two other famous makes of car of long ago—the Model T Ford, and the Rolls-Royce "Silver Ghost," they having continued to be made in practically their original form for 20 years.

Among First Three

But—sentimentality aside—whereas their revision had been ripe ten years after introduction, and long overdue when finally it was undertaken in 1927, the Morris Minor, on the other hand, was so incomparably far ahead of competition when it saw the light of day at that sensational London Motor Show of 1919 that, by 1959, it continues to be regarded as being among the first three passenger cars made, anywhere and at any price, in respect of road-behavior.

Even among the smaller imported sedans, particularly British ones, which have taught us new standards of road-holding and handling, the Morris Minor remains the standard in these respects by which even the latest models of the others are judged.

Simple, Orthodox

The miracle of the Morris Minor is the more astonishing for the essential simplicity and utter orthodoxy of its engineering. Whereas there are today other small cars—and extremely good ones—which are "different," i.e., engine in the trunk, or front wheel drive, or air-cooled, or with complicated suspension systems, or with "pancake" engines, or with three cylinders, etc., etc., the Morris Minor could serve as the "text-book" car in any mechanics' school as the typical example of contemporary design.

True, this car did not evolve overnight. It was, rather, fully 13 years in the making, counting the war years during which development work was skeletal. But it was in 1936 when the now-famous British engineer, Alec Issigonis, set to work at Morris Motors, Ltd., with a clean sheet, to create what we know today as the Morris Minor.

Painstaking Work

In the course of his development work, he tried every one of the features, and then some, mentioned above in connection with the less orthodox cars. It was by this painstaking and round-about process that the final design was distilled into the artful simplicity as we know it today.

The first Morris Minor had a side-valve engine of less than one litre displacement, the only component inherited from the previous Model E Morris—918 c.c. to be exact. Those who knew no better accused the car of being under-powered, especially since the engine was connected through a transmission and differential of exceptional high gearing.

The case really was that the chassis had a margin of stamina and safety which the power of the engine could not begin to exhaust—which is still true today in respect of the latest Morris Minor "1000" with its far more powerful engine.

Merger in 1951

In 1951 came the amalgamation of Morris Motors, Ltd., and Austin of England, into the British Motor Corporation, as a result of which, in 1953, the Morris Minor received the smaller but more modern overhead-valve engine of 803 c.c., together with the small Austin transmission and rear axle of considerably lower gearing.

In 1957 came the third development of the Minor, into what may well be its ideal form—known today as the Morris Minor "1000". An enlarged overhead-valve engine of 948 c.c. is fitted, together with the original, high final drive ratio of 4.55:1, and what a great little machine this current Minor is!

Forty m.p.h. is quite common, 60 m.p.h. available in third gear, top speed in the high seventies, sustained cruising speed around seventy with tenacious road-holding and absolutely true, straight-line running, with no possibility of hurting the high-grade engine with its lead-in-dium bearings and chrome-hardened top piston ring.

The marvellous rack-and-pinion steering is positive, with absolutely no lost motion, at speed, and as easy as if it were power-assisted while parking. Incidentally, the only car we can recall which, as a convertible, neither costs nor weighs more than its closed counterpart.

Captain James Cook, the 18th-century English navigator, was a haberdasher's apprentice when he ran away to sea.

OUR VERY OWN ISLAND DIGEST

(Our V.O. Correspondents were asked if their communities would be willing to assist Victoria in getting the Pan-American Games.)

WOBBLE HILL, V.I.—We haven't had much experience with games here, this being a hard-working community devoted to good hard work and progress.

However, the men folk at one time got together and staged a series of snake and ladders games, which went along fine until somebody found out the dice were loaded. Lem Fudd used to play a slightly different version of spin the bottle. Instead of spinning the bottle, Lem drank the contents and did the spinning personally.

However, Lem had to give this up, as there is so much water in what comes in bottles these days his stomach was getting rusty.

So you see we do not know much about games here. But wish Victoria every luck and all.

CUTTING CORNERS, V.I.—It is unlikely Victoria will get much support from Cutting Corners with regard to getting the games.

Not that we wouldn't like to assist but we will be pretty busy ourselves.

We are attempting to promote an international convention of nudists here, which would of course be the Skin Games.

WALLOPEM BEACH, V.I.—As far as games are concerned, this hustling, bustling community has had its share of fun and games.

But not right now, this being the off-season, like.

LUNCHVILLE, V.I.—A quick poll of the opinion of the man in the street shows that the average Lunchville citizen is all in favor of Victoria getting the Pan-American Games.

(It was a quick poll because there was only one man on the street at the time, as there usually is.)

The man on the street said yes, Victoria should get the Pan-American Games.

"They pan everything else down there," he said. "Why shouldn't they pan the American games?"

GOON CENTRE, B.C.—(In the absence of your regular correspondent Mrs. Abner Goon, this dispatch is writ by hand by her husband, Mayor Abner Goon, the chief magistrate and leading citizen of Goon Centre, is willing to assist Victoria stage the Pan-American Games.

Mayor Goon said today he was sure the Games would be an unqualified success if the promoters made sure there was a good, big beauty contest for Queen of the Games, featuring a lot of good, big beauties.

Although it would be at great personal sacrifice, Mayor Goon said he would be willing to judge the great, big beauties in the great, big beauty contest.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Juveniles are believed responsible for making a shambles of Victoria West Lawn Bowling Clubhouse sometime since Saturday.

Police were told Tuesday afternoon seven large windows and six smaller windows were smashed, 12 light bulbs broken, five large window shades ripped, furniture upturned, teabags, jam and cutlery strewn about and tacks driven into the woodwork.

Two .22 rifles were confiscated under provision of the Game Act in Central Saanich police courts Tuesday.

Derek Lewis-Godwin, Sidney, was fined $10 for hunting on private property, on appearance in open court.

A 17-year-old juvenile was fined $10 in juvenile court for the same offence.

The two hunters had shot a raccoon, police said.

A mantel radio was stolen in a burglary of RSCSC Rainbow at the foot of Robert Street between Jan. 10 and 13, city police were told Tuesday.

Annual general meeting of Victoria Unit No. 12, Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans in Canada, will be held 8 p.m. Thursday in the auditorium, 1001 Wharf.

A joint meeting of Victoria Kinsmen Club and the Victoria Isle branch will be held at 7 p.m. Thursday at the James Bay Hotel.

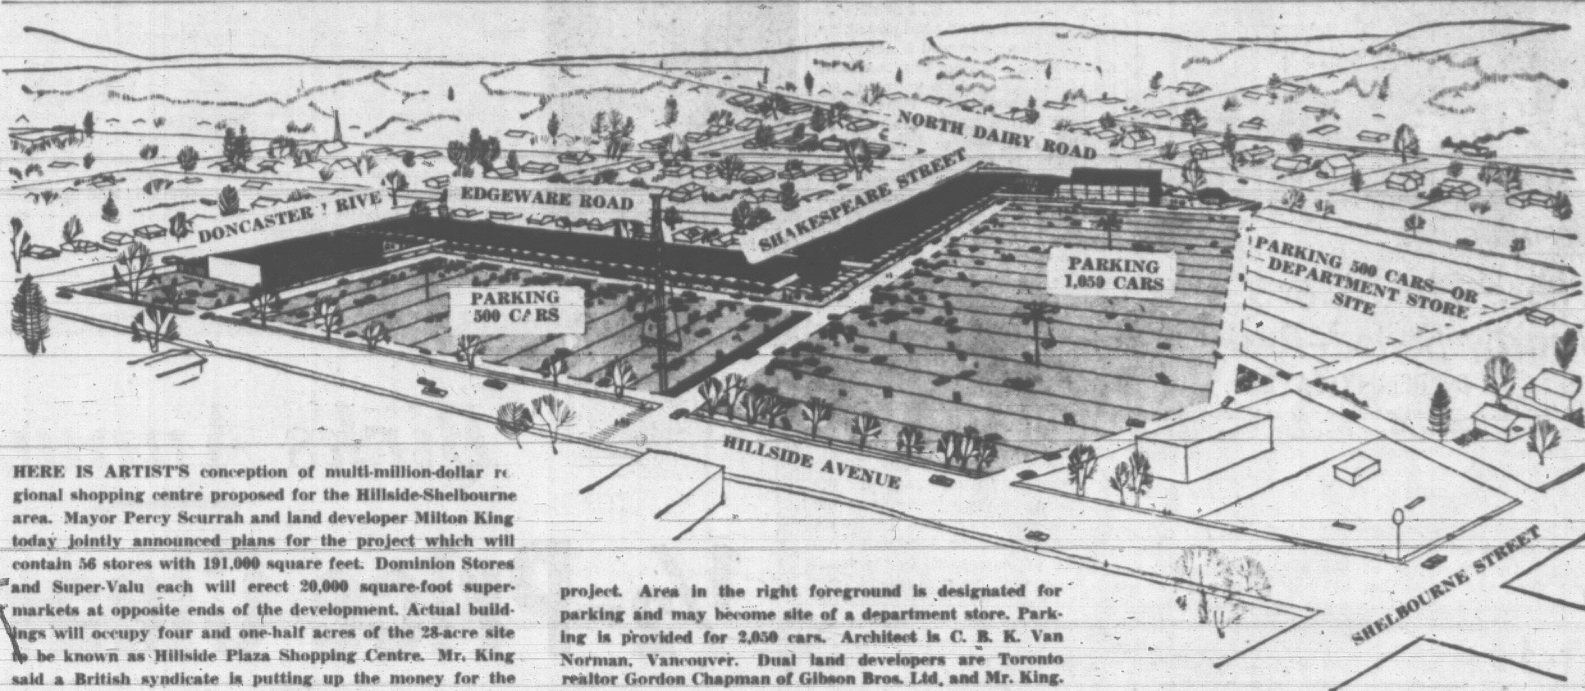

Greater Victoria Inter-municipal committee Tuesday set up a transportation-sub-committee to meet annually with B.C. Electric Co.

Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtele, who proposed the step, was named chairman. Other members are Saanich Coun. Charles Nelles, Ald. Geoffrey Dowell and Oak Bay Coun. R. B. Mathews.

John Minnis, 83, of 1608 Quadra, is in good condition at Jubilee Hospital today with chest injury suffered when he was in collision with a car outside the hospital Tuesday evening.

Police said Minnis was walking across Richmond in a pedestrian crossing at Coronation when he was in collision with a car driven by Elsie M. Hanley, 1238 St. Patrick.

Chinese Consolidated Benevolent Association has requested the city to sell the Chinese Hospital to it for $1 so that it can qualify for provincial grants for its expansion program. The association operates the city-owned hospital.

HERE IS ARTIST'S conception of multi-million-dollar regional shopping centre proposed for the Hillside-Shelbourne area. Mayor Percy Scurrell and land developer Milton King today jointly announced plans for the project which will contain 56 stores with 191,000 square feet. Dominion Stores and Super-Valu each will erect 20,000 square-foot supermarkets at opposite ends of the development. Actual buildings will occupy four and one-half acres of the 28-acre site to be known as Hillside Plaza Shopping Centre. Mr. King said a British syndicate is putting up the money for the project. Area in the right foreground is designated for parking and may become site of a department store. Parking is provided for 2,050 cars. Architect is C. B. K. Van Norman, Vancouver. Dual land developers are Toronto realtor Gordon Chapman of Gibson Bros. Ltd. and Mr. King.

MANTHA TO APPEAL MURDER CONVICTION

Notice of appeal against conviction for murder was filed at Victoria Court Registry today on behalf of Leo Anthony Mantha.

Mantha, 31-year-old tugboatman, was convicted Dec. 17 of the stabbing death of Naden sailor Able Seaman Aaron Hetherington Jenkins, Sept. 6.

The appeal may be heard at the current session of the B.C. Court of Appeal due to end late in February, or at the sittings to begin in March. A date was expected to be set later this week.

Mantha is due to hang March 17.

Improved Service For Sidney-U.S.

Longer period of service and addition of a larger ferry on the Sidney-Anacortes run of Washington State Ferries was announced today by R. L. Birse, general manager.

The state-owned company will start operating out of Sidney March 23, using the Klickitat, newly enlarged to carry 95 cars.

In April one of the newest and largest car and passenger ferries on the Pacific Coast, the Evergreen State, will be added to the service.

FINEST SERVICE

Mr. Birse explained: "Allocation of this equipment to the Sidney service has been made possible by the Canadian government's construction of the new ferry terminal at Sidney, and assignment of these two vessels will provide the southern end of Vancouver Island with the finest ferry service available."

Evergreen State features luxurious passenger accommodation and over-size observation windows, ideal for the scenic route through the San Juan Islands.

YEAR-AROUND?

Today's announcement details service through to Oct. 31 of this year, but it is believed WSF will extend the service throughout the year if circumstances warrant.

Rumors persist that the CPR will retire Princess Joan and Princess Elizabeth from service this year, and vacate the Victoria-Seattle service.

If this occurs, WSF appears ready to provide year-round connection from the Island to the United States mainland.

Mr. Birse also announced to day that the ferry Kalakala will operate one round trip daily from March 23 to May 21, leaving Anacortes at 8:30 a.m. and Sidney at 12:50 p.m.

The Sidney-Anacortes service will operate one round trip daily from March 23 to May 21, leaving Anacortes at 8:30 a.m. and Sidney at 12:50 p.m.

TWO ROUND TRIPS

From May 22 through June 11, the service will be increased to two round trips, leaving Anacortes at 7 a.m. and 1:30 p.m., and Sidney at 10:15 a.m. and 4:45 p.m.

During the busy summer season, June 11 through Sept. 8, there will be three trips a day, leaving Anacortes at 7 a.m. and 10:10 a.m. and 3:20 p.m., leaving Sidney at 9:45 a.m. and 1:55 p.m.

There will be two round trips daily Sept. 9 through Oct. 12, and one daily Oct. 13 to Oct. 31.

Victoria agent for Washington State Ferries is Blaney's Travel Service Ltd.

2-Car Crash Victim In 'Poor Condition'

A 35-year-old Victoria man was in poor condition today with skull fracture and multiple injuries after the car he drove was in a two-car smash at Ryan and Scott Tuesday at 3 p.m.

Edward D. Miles, 3366 Wordsworth, was unconscious when admitted to Jubilee Hospital and remained semi-conscious Tuesday night.

Impact of the crash, which took place at an intersection where there have been six accidents in as many days, threw the man on to the pavement where he was found by police.

Miles' son, Terry, seven, a passenger in his father's car, was released from hospital after treatment for a leg injury.

Mrs. Shirley Brown, 2664 Scott, passenger in the other car driven by Clare L. Brown, of the same address, was treated for shock and bruises and also released.

There were heavy skid marks left with debris and groceries spilled from Miles' car where the driver was thrown to the street.

Miles had been driving west on Ryan, and Brown, recently arrived from Manitoba, was going north on Scott. He said he had been looking for a house.

"I only hope he's all right," Brown kept repeating as he nervously smoked a cigarette after the crash.

A WREN of the Royal Canadian Navy who formerly served at HMCS Naden will join the royal household at Buckingham Palace this month for one year. Petty Officer Rosalee Auger, 25, has been appointed private secretary to Esmond Butler, Canadian now serving as assistant press secretary to Queen Elizabeth in connection with the royal visit to Canada in June and July. WREN Auger leaves for England Friday, will travel with the royal party during the Canadian visit.

2-Car Crash Victim In 'Poor Condition'

Mrs. C. G. Jackson, 2809 Scott, said there had been six accidents at the corner in the previous six days.

"They need a stop sign here," she said. Her house is second from the intersection.

"One car in a crash nearly went through the front door of Mrs. (Annie) Bateman's house next door (2801 Scott)"

Mrs. Jackson said.

"There's one car that goes through here nearly every night like a jet."

Mrs. Jackson pointed out that Oaklands School is only a block away by Ryan and that a few minutes later the intersection would have been busy with children going home from school.

RCAF Doubts Large Object Crashed Jet

The RCAF today expressed doubts a large object located underwater near Campbell River is the wreckage of a CF100 jet fighter plane.

Analysis of fibre glass particles brought to the surface by an RCN salvage team from Esquimalt indicates it is not the type used for insulation in the CF100, the RCAF said.

The object, at 450 feet, is too deep for the Navy's underwater television camera.

Installation—Rev. C. G. MacKenzie conducted installation ceremony for newly-elected officers at a meeting of the Women's Association of the United Church held in the home of Mrs. W. Byers, Ganges, Salt Spring Island. President Mrs. F. H. A. Reid was in the chair. Devotions were taken by Mrs. W. M. Mouat. Mrs. MacKenzie was named missionary secretary and Mrs. J. Catto and Mrs. W. LeFevre, church flower committee. Hostesses were Mrs. Byers and Mrs. H. Ashley.

On Etiquette

Stepmother's place at wedding:

My husband, a widower whom I recently married, has a daughter who will be married in two months. Being new in the family, I don't want to overstep and need your help. The daughter and I get along beautifully. She, too, is willing to go along with your suggestion. Should my name go on the invitations to the wedding and reception, or just my husband's? What is my place at the church? Do I come in last (just before the processional) or should I sit toward the back? Should I be in the receiving line?

Louise Davis answers:

Even though you married recently, I see no reason under the pleasant circumstances why you should remain in the background, especially since you and your husband's daughter are so friendly. The invitations, therefore, should be worded, "Mr. and Mrs. Philip Henry Wilson" request the honor of your presence at the marriage of Mr. Wilson's daughter, Jean Elizabeth, to all means, sit in the front pew with your husband, and be the last to enter before the wedding march. And by all means, be in the receiving line, for you will be the official hostess and there is no reason why you should "get lost!"

Miss Privett leaves Thursday for Ottawa to await new posting

Works for Canada in Foreign Field

It's only a little over two years since Miss Shelagh Privett joined the staff of the Department of External Affairs. Two months afterward she received a posting as stenographer in the office of the High Commissioner at New Delhi, India. "I suppose it was something of a record," she says diffidently, "although, they are short of women in this service and appointments do come quicker now." Her assignment in India completed, Miss Privett has been on home leave for the past few weeks, visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Privett, Ardmore Road, Sidney.

She leaves for Ottawa and a new posting on Thursday. "I could come in two months," she says with a twinkle in her eyes, "but I might have to wait two years." In India, Miss Privett was one of an office staff of 25 Canadians and 15 locals—men and women. The East Indian men wore western clothes but the women always wore the sari. "Once grown up an East Indian woman rarely wears western clothes," she explains. "As children and up to the age of 15 you will see them in western skirts and blouses. But immediately they reach womanhood, they go back to the beautiful sari or to the sarwar kamiz, a sari-like costume of pants and coat." Younger women in India are taking an active part in public affairs, Miss Privett thinks, although the older women still "stay close to their own homes."

22 Victoria Daily Times WEDNESDAY, JAN. 14, 1959

passed through the Commissioner's office. And there were a wonderful job." Miss Privett received her education at Queen Margaret's School at Duncan. She went overseas to Europe in 1949 after graduation and then again in 1953 for the Coronation. That time she stayed for two-and-a-half years. She worked in London and also lived with a French family in Paris to learn more of the language. Does she look forward to another foreign appointment? "It's almost certain. You see there is nothing in Canada except at Ottawa. But we have 68 different places I could be posted abroad."

No Sacks in Style Preview

NEW YORK (AP)—There's not a sack in a carload of New York spring fashions now being previewed by the fashion press.

Today's champions of the female form include designers Jo Coand, Aeg Cassini and Ben Zuckerman. The only holdout is Larry Aldrich, who has been beating the drums for the "relaxed" silhouette for high on to five years and still shows it, modified but recognizable.

Jo Copeland, the designer who claims she never has taken a cue from Paris, shows a feminine, flattering and strictly elegant group of daytime and evening fashions. Most dramatic of her evening gowns is a full-length sheath of white chiffon with jeweled midriff and floating panels.

Cassini, playboy of the New York couture, goes happily back to his figure-revealing creations with necklines as low as the law allows, insisting that "the bosom is here to stay."

Ben Zuckerman shows a discreet and wearable group of superbly tailored suits and coats, the suits all with short jackets and slim skirts. Notable in the collection is a group of simple and sophisticated black silk cocktail dresses with cover-up jackets, to convert them for 24-hour duty.

New Goals For Youth

Girls from Y-Teens, young peoples' societies and Canadian Girls in Training, and their leaders crowded Kirk Hall of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Tuesday evening, to listen to a fascinating story based on fact.

A story of opportunity in Christian work in foreign fields, at home and in allied organizations.

Important fact was that these young women (from 15 years of age) and their leaders, represented six different groups interested in recruiting young workers—United, Presbyterian, Baptist and Anglican churches, Salvation Army and the YWCA.

Grown-ups attended the gathering, too. Mrs. Kate McIsaac and Miss Connie Main came all the way from Lake Cowichan "just to see if there was any work we could do."

Miss Inez Morrison, Toronto, a former missionary in Trinidad, and now personnel secretary for the United Church at Toronto, told the girls of the opportunities in "the foreign field, as nurses, dietitians, doctors, social workers."

Executive secretary of the YWCA in Victoria, Mrs. Phyllis Graveley, presented an interesting picture of opportunities for leaders in "Y" work. Miss Winnifred Ripley, Presbyterian deaconess on Vancouver Island, spoke of work to be found in the home field.

All three speakers stressed the need for young girls to finish high school training before going on to work in any of these fields of endeavor. "High school education is the foundation on which all academic work is placed," they pointed out.

Training centres for education in Christian work have been established by the churches represented and it is possible for a young girl to go on from high school or specialized training to these schools.

"We are going to need more and more young leaders in the next few years to meet the growing demands of this Sputnik age," Miss Morrison pointed out.

All three speakers met girls who were interested in various phases of the work for further discussion after the meeting.

"It has been a stimulating experience," Mrs. Graveley

Fancy Dress Dance

More than 50 dancers attended the hard times fancy dress dance, sponsored by the Wagon Wheels Square Dance Club, on Salt Spring Island last Saturday. Prizes were awarded to Miss Pat Douglas and William Westcott for best costumes; Mrs. Jessie Bond and Malcolm Bond, Mrs. Al Taylor and Bill Evans and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Caldwell, for dancing; Bert Barber, Bill Evans and Bill Palmer assisted as callers. Miss Magdalene Barber convoked refreshments.

English Model In Bed to Live

TORONTO (CP)—Yvonne Mann, 23-year-old English redhead, is staying in bed for a living.

A fashion model from London, she is "demonstrating" a bed which tilts at the head or foot with the press of a button.

The bed and Yvonne are part of the 10-day Canadian Furniture Mart, where Canada's furniture manufacturers display their wares to retailers and the public.

Elizabeth Hopkins Wed in Naval Chapel; Wears Lace, Net Gown

In an attractive evening ceremony recently, Miss Elizabeth Hopkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hopkins, of Swansea, South Wales, became the bride of AB Robert Martin, HMCS Miramichi, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Martin of Port Arthur, Ont.

HMCS Naden chapel was setting for the marriage conducted by Padre I R. Edwards. Traditional music was played by Lieut. T. Kadey.

Wearing a white ballerina length gown, the bride entered the church on the arm of PO W. E. J. Baxter, formerly of Port Arthur, Ont. The fitted bodice of the wedding gown was of Chantilly lace with a modified scooped neckline and lily point sleeves. A full skirt of fine net was applied with hand-clipped lace flowers. Two back panels matching the skirt floated from the neckline. Her jewelry was pearl earrings, gift of the groom. She carried a bouquet of red rosebuds and white carnations.

An aqua blue nylon ballerina length gown was worn by the groom's sister, Miss Ginger Martin, who was bridesmaid. Her headress was in tone and she carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations. AB D. Hinch, Victoria, was best man.

A reception was held at Chez Marcel where PO Baxter, a friend of the family, proposed the toast to the bride. The bridal table was centred with a three-tier cake.

Leaving on honeymoon, the new Mrs. Martin wore a shantung silk beige suit, with brown jacket and accessories and a corsage of pink roses and white carnations.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Yesterday I told you about my recent experience when trying to buy shoes which are fashionable but comfortable. I also told you that I have a foot which is of average or smaller size in order to prove that I do not have a special foot problem.

Evidently many women are having the same trouble. I told a friend of mine about my experience and she said, "Don't say another word! I know what you mean. The other day I spent two hours in one of the best stores and tried on every shoe they had in my size."

She continued, "The salesman and I were both simply exhausted! He looked at me and said, 'Lady, let's face it! You have square feet.'"

It is getting serious when salesmen and manufacturers think that our feet are square rather than that the shoes are too pointed. The salesman has no choice. If he is going to sell shoes all day long he must believe in the shoes he has to sell, and take it for granted that feet are square even if only one out of ten women can be fitted properly. He should not be expected to worry about human anatomy.

BIND FEET

The manufacturers might worry a bit though. They have "sold" us on the pointed toe and slim heel and we like them. Then, as soon as we accept them the designers become more and more extreme. Well, something's got to give. I do not think it is going to be women's feet—not for long.

If they are going to foist such shoes on us they should have warned us ahead of time, a long time ahead of time. In the past some Orientals bound the feet of their girl babies. This is just about what it would take to wear some of the very extreme shoes on the market today.

If you are going to have distorted toes I can't help that, but I do not want you to have broken arches also. For that reason, and because many people have weak arches, I am offering my exercises for the feet. If you would like to have them, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 14 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Russ Woman Loses Job

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Maria Kovrigina, the Soviet Union's only woman cabinet minister, who led a campaign for a better deal for Russian women, has been released from her job as minister of health "in connection with her transfer to other work," the government announced Monday night.

Mme. Kovrigina, appointed in 1954, had campaigned for fewer hours and less arduous work for the women who form a large part of the Soviet labor force.

In 1957 she appealed for the introduction in the Soviet Union of "effective, convenient and harmless" means of birth control to eliminate the need of abortions, which are legal in Russia.

She also campaigned for cheaper medical services and improved medical care for old people.

The ministerial change appears to be part of a cabinet shuffle before the 21st Communist party congress at the end of this month. S. V. Kurahev, a former health minister, will take over from Mme. Kovrigina.

On Mexico — Mrs. Gwen Downes gave a talk on her recent trip to Mexico at a meeting of the Navy League Chapter, IODE. It was reported that linen had been received by Mrs. Percy George to be given to a needy family. Mrs. E. Marshall, new member, was welcomed and nominations for executive were received, for 1959.

Hip Walkers Earn Double Prize

Do you walk from the hip or the knee? Chances are you assume that you walk from the hip, while actually you're swinging your leg from the knee down only.

To make use of all the leg muscles and to have a graceful walk, you should walk from the hip. The way to determine what your walk is can be accomplished by checking on your stride. For walking can do you a great deal of good or none at all.

It can exercise many of the body muscles and help to keep you trim or use just a few muscles and do you very little good. You should be able to feel the stretch of the muscles the length of your entire leg, to the hip, as you walk along.

This means that your heel height must be right, your shoes comfortable and your pace fairly brisk. Women who teeter along on spike heels are not only asking for foot trouble, they are not getting exercise in the real sense of the word.

Teenagers who are shopping now for spring clothes should plan their wardrobes in advance. First, check the fashions in this newspaper so that you know what the line is for spring. Next, jot down what you already own that's wearable.

Be fair, now. A closetful of limp clothes from last year doesn't necessarily mean that you have a lot of things to wear. So weed out the limp ones and list only those that still look well.

Now, are there skirts that need new blouses or sweaters? Dresses that need new pumps or handbags? What about your spring coat? Will it serve another year or should you have a new one? If so, what color will blend best with the balance of your wardrobe?

The reason that some teenagers always look well-dressed while others are thoughtlessly put together is always a matter of planning.

The woman who avoids using eyeshadow because she feels it's too daring might be the very woman who, this fall, will use the new violet mascara on her eyelashes.

Sounds daring, too? It's really very pretty for dressy occasions and lends an added glamor to an evening out.

You might want to experiment with shades of green or royal blue, too, just for the fun of it. You can blend the violet and the blue for a softened, misty look and turn up with the prettiest eyelashes in town.

DEAR ABBY

Mothers-In-Law!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law is here visiting us from out of town. We were invited to a dinner party and naturally we took her with us. They served drinks first and my mother-in-law doesn't drink. At 8.30 when no dinner was in sight, my mother-in-law went into the kitchen and fixed herself a peanut butter and jelly sandwich and a pot of tea, which she brought out and ate right in front of everybody while they were still having their drinks. My husband said he saw nothing wrong with it. I was ashamed to death. I'd like your opinion.

DEAR SHAMED: She was quite bold to help herself and then to bring it out to eat before the guests, but I can sympathize with her. Hostesses should consider the non-drinking guest by providing something to stave off hunger. Forget it, and next time feed her first.

DEAR ABBY: I suppose this will sound made up but I hope to die if it isn't true. I am 18 and my mother is 34, but she looks younger. We are both in love with the same man. He is divorced, 30 years old, and he takes turns taking us out. He says he can't make up his mind which one he loves more. My mother has been divorced twice and says she is not interested in marriage, but if he marries me she would like to live with us and that way we could both have him. Is that against any laws you know of?

IN LOVE.

DEAR IN: This is against every law I know of. Your mother should use the rocks in her head to fill up the holes.

Fashion Expert Dies in Paris

PARIS, Reuters—Andre de Fouquieres, known as the arbiter of French fashion and elegance between the two world wars, died here Tuesday. He was 82.

De Fouquieres, known as "the last of the Parisians of Paris," regularly attended smart salons in the French capital and nearby resorts and wrote on art, fashions and etiquette.

'Scots Already Control Important Thing (Money)'

BY NORMAN CRIBBENS
The people of Scotland are far better able to look after their own affairs than any government in Westminster. James Marrs told a meeting of the Burns Club of Victoria Tuesday night.

Mr. Marrs, in a panel discussion spearheaded an argument in favor of a separate Scottish parliament in Edinburgh with powers similar to those of Canada's provincial governments.

He said it was "deplorable" that Englishmen in London should be allowed to legislate for people north of the Tweed. He claimed that Scotland's representation in the British House of Commons—71 members against 554 English—was inadequate.

HEATED DEBATE

The subject of home rule for Scotland was debated for the first time in Victoria at a meeting in Holyrood House—the stronghold of local Scots. It produced a heated debate, even among the Scots themselves.

"The English government has spent more on educating the Scots than it has on the English," said Ald. D. J. (Cappy) Proudfoot in a spirited stand against home rule for Scotland.

"If it hadn't been for that we couldn't have exported the brains and ability we have

FATAL SPLIT

Duncan MacBride opened the discussion by saying he had always wanted home rule for Scotland, but felt any separation of England and Scotland today would be fatal.

"Scotland could not survive such a separation; nor could England," he declared.

Charles MacLeod said "Hold Fast" was the motto of the MacLeod clan, and he felt that Scottish methods of road building, bridging and housing were far beyond those of England.

MORE SAY

He argued that a country of 5,000,000 people should have more "say" in the affairs of Great Britain.

Mr. Marrs suggested that Scotland should have a government in Edinburgh with powers similar to those of the provincial governments of Canada.

He claimed that Scots, with only 10 per cent representation in the British House of Commons, were "hopelessly outnumbered."

"We have been dictated to more and more by the Parliament in London," Mr. Marrs said. "Yet in nearly 2,000 years no conqueror has ever subjected Scotland and Scottish brains are respected all over the world."

TV PIONEER

Mr. Marrs alluded to the Scottish inventor, Baird, as the pioneer of television and he pointed out that Britain had TV 10 years before Canada or the United States.

"I need not mention Scotch whisky," he said, "for that is revered all over the world as the greatest whisky ever produced."

"I am not suggesting Scotland should sever its connection with England, but working independently under the British flag she could accomplish much."

Ald. Proudfoot opposed home rule as undesirable and unnecessary.

FORGET IT

Again emphasizing the amount of money spent by England on Scottish education, he declared:

"When the English are willing to subsidize us against their own people, for heaven's sake let's forget about home rule...."

"The Scots already have control of most of the important things in life, especially finances. We have been taking the English for a run for a long time. Let's keep them running."

William MacGillivray, who presided over the discussion, said Ald. Proudfoot and Mr. MacBride had presented a strong argument in favor of "letting sleeping dogs lie."

PRIVATE TALK

He also commended Mr. Marrs and Mr. MacLeod for their spirited arguments in favor of home rule.

During the question period a woman in the audience asked: "How many people here tonight would like to go back to Scotland to live?"

To which chairman MacGillivray replied:

"That is a very difficult question. I would like to talk to the lady privately on this matter."

NINE WORKMEN INJURED WHEN BRIDGE COLLAPSES

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—The centre span of a railroad overpass under construction collapsed Tuesday. Twelve workmen rode wet concrete and twisted steel to the tracks 25 feet below.

Nine of them were brought to hospitals with injuries ranging from broken bones to severe bruises and lacerations.

Is "iron-hungry blood" making you so tired you're ashamed?

Feel better fast when you suffer that run-down, weary feeling! Take this blood-improving iron tonic compounded especially for women!

How unfortunate when a woman is so tired, so weak and run-down, she feels guilty that she can't face the day's problems. Luckily, it's often due to "Iron-Hungry Blood" (simple iron deficiency anemia). Then it's needless for those women to go on suffering such awful weariness without help. A special iron tonic can help relieve this condition... thus renew your vitality! It's Lydia E. Pinkham's Tablets, an iron tonic made especially for women. With blood-improving iron, Pinkham's Tablets start to strengthen "Iron-Hungry Blood" fast. Thus quickly help build rich, red blood... to restore strength and energy so you feel fine again. In women, "Iron-Hungry Blood" is often aggravated with change of life and hot flashes. And especially in younger women—with monthly pain and cramps. Pinkham's unique formula can also bring blessed relief for these functionally-caused female sufferings that can do so much to drain away strength and vitality too. No wonder so many women find Pinkham's Tablets useful all through their lives! If "Iron-Hungry Blood" has left you weak and run-down, get Pinkham's Tablets at drugists. Then see if you don't soon feel more like yourself again!

FOR FEMALE AILMENTS! Tests prove Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound (liquid) also brings quick relief from discomforts of monthly pain and change-of-life.

Too Much News on Pope?

LONDON (Reuters) — An Anglican clergyman said Tuesday that while "tremendous publicity" was given in the British press and on television to the coronation of Pope John the Lambeth Conference of Anglican bishops was given "half a column on the back page."

Rev. G. R. Sansbury of Lincoln told the lower house of the convocation of Canterbury that the British press was doing much to assist the claim that the Roman Catholic Church was the church of the realm and that the Pope was its spiritual leader.

"What every Mother should know about oranges"

- The meat of an orange is the main source of many of its nutrition values, including the important Bio-flavonoids* and Protopectins.
- These values are largely strained out of frozen orange juice. That's why your family should eat fresh Sunkist oranges.
- Serve them whole for luscious eating or squeeze them for juice keeping the nourishing solids.

* Bio-flavonoids—new found aid to basic nutrition

Science now knows that Bio-flavonoids strengthen your body's 60,000 miles of capillaries (tiny blood vessels) and help keep them elastic. Bio-flavonoids team with Vitamin C, increasing its effectiveness, allowing it to do a better job for children in building bones and muscles, sound teeth and gums. That's why you should always eat whole fresh oranges... drink whole fresh orange juice.

FROM RAGS TO RICHES IN U.K. SOCCER POOL

LONDON (Reuters)—A down-and-out former brick-layer with £2 to his name Tuesday learned he won £15,000 for one penny in a soccer lottery.

Percy Barstow, 32, has lived on just over £3-a-week relief in a municipal lodging house since ill-health made him give up work six months ago.

He told reporters: "I don't want any cars or luxuries. All I want is a shave, some clothes and some sunshine for my health."

CHURCHMAN HITS OBSCENE MAGAZINES

'Tide of Filth' on Newstands

TORONTO (CP) — Rev. James R. Mutchmor says Canada's magazine stands are being assailed by a "tide of filth."

Dr. Mutchmor, chairman of the board of evangelism and social service of the United Church of Canada, told 50 of his colleagues Tuesday there has been a sharp increase in the number of "obscene magazines."

One reason, he said, was the "disillusionment" of customs officials.

He said these men feel their efforts at excluding "this tide of filth from entering Canada" are not appreciated.

Dr. Mutchmor was backed up by Dr. J. W. Mohr of the Big Brother Movement, who headed a study of obscene literature two years ago.

He said the situation has deteriorated during the last six months.

One difficulty is that there is no definition of "obscene" which can be scientifically arrived at, said Dr. Mohr.

4 OUT OF 5 BULLSEYES FOR NEW U.K. MISSILE

LONDON (AP)—Britain said Tuesday night her new air-to-air Firestreak guided missile destroyed four out of every five targets in recent tests in the Mediterranean.

"In the trials, 80 per cent of the missiles fired against drone aircraft flown from Malta were completely successful and the remainder were very near misses," said an Admiralty statement.

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 11-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe. Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Conley C. Kelly Jr., aged 11, of Houston, Tex., for his question:

What Causes the Colors of Sunset?

At age 11, you can understand the wave theory of light and also a tiny measurement called the angstrom. These two concepts will help you grasp the cause of the orange red glows of dawn and sunset. But they are not necessary for you to appreciate these gorgeous spectacles.

The wave theory suggests that light travels out from its source in waves, or pulses, like hills and valleys. White light from the sun is a blend of assorted rays. Each ray has its own color and each travels on its own wave length. The wave length is the distance from the top of one crest to the top of the next.

The colors blended in white light are the rainbow colors of the spectrum. Our eyes can pick out six or seven clear bands of color in the spectrum but there are countless tints and tones as one color fades into the next. Each of these colors and tones travels on its own wave length.

At the red end of the spectrum the wave length is about 0.00004 of a centimeter. At the opposite blue end, the wave lengths are about 0.00007 of a centimeter. The red wave lengths, then, are almost twice as long as the blue wave lengths. Imagine the thickness of a sheet of notepaper. This distance is equal to about 130 waves of red rays and about 260 waves of blue light. But this is a clumsy way to measure. Instead, the experts use the angstrom, abbreviated as A.

The angstrom unit is equal to one hundred millionth part of a centimeter. Our eyes cannot see such a small unit and even our minds find it hard to grasp. But it does allow us to write the wave lengths of light in whole numbers. The wave lengths of visible light range all the way from 4000 A to 7000 A.

scattered and subtracted from the spectrum. The yellow, orange and red tones become more noticeable. These are the rays with longer wave lengths. They are caught and reflected by clouds and we see the flaming beauty of the sunset.

Andy sends a Hammond's Nature Atlas of America to Linda Kay Webb, age nine, of Shreveport, La., for her question:

Are snakes intelligent?

"Snakes have been tested by experts to see how smart they are. The graceful animals did not do so well. It was found that a mama snake did no better than her newly hatched youngsters. No snake, it seems, can learn very much from experience.

As a rule, a baby snake knows as much as he will ever know. He is born able to take care of himself from the first day of life. Strong instincts tell him what to do and he obeys them. So actually he has no need to learn anything more. He goes through life with no more sense than he was born with.

DEDICATION DEMANDED

Alderman to Oppose Park Fund Transfer

Ald. D. J. Proudfoot indicated Tuesday he may oppose transfer of Greater Victoria centennial committee funds for development of the Beaver-Elk Lake recreational project if the land is not dedicated as a park.

During a city parks committee discussion of the Beaver-Elk Lake concession, Ald. Proudfoot, secretary of the centennial committee, asked when the land would be formally dedicated as a park.

"Well, the committee won't get centennial money if the area is not dedicated as a park," he said when informed there were no plans for dedication.

Ald. M. H. Mooney said the land could not be dedicated as a park because it was held under the Water Act as a water supply reservoir.

Parks administrator W. H. Warren said there had been no suggestion of dedication in negotiating the developments in the areas as a centennial project.

"Well, I'll see about that," said Ald. Proudfoot. "I'll look up the correspondence."

The point was tabled for a report from Ald. Proudfoot.

About half of the $52,000 centennial grant already has been spent on the development for beach sanding and clearing, landscaping and other work.

More U.S. Jobless
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. government reported Tuesday that the number of unemployed rose 212,000 in December to a total of 4,108,000 because of winter cutbacks in farming, construction and other outdoor jobs.

Sloan Rarely Took Holiday

Mrs. Gordon Sloan was often heard to say that her husband rarely, if ever, took a holiday.

"His work is his life," she said. "He loves his work and he is completely dedicated to it."

An old friend of Mr. Sloan also described him as "dedicated to his work."

"Both as chief justice and later as forestry adviser to the government he was often lonely, in the sense that he could not mix and talk with people as we do."

"And he was so conscientious that he would never give anyone an opportunity of saying that he was prejudiced in any direction. This called for a very austere life which Gordon Sloan lived dutifully."

"I don't think he had any real hobbies. He took his work home at nights and on weekends and if he made any phone calls it usually had reference to his work."

Another of Mr. Sloan's friends said he was "very fond" of his garden but had little time to spare for it. "If he had not been so wrapped up in his work, I think he would have been a keen gardener."

New Pain-Killing Drug Safer Than Morphine

WASHINGTON (AP)—Development of a promising new drug with pain-killing power at least 10 times that of morphine but apparently less addicting and safer was announced Tuesday by Welfare Secretary Arthur Flemming.

Flemming emphasized the new drug still is in the experimental and testing stage. It already has been used on more than 200 persons.

The new pain drug, now known as NIH7519, was developed by Drs. Everette L. May and Nathan B. Eddy of the National Institute of Arthritis and Metabolic Diseases. They have assigned the patent to the U.S. government.

It is made from derivatives of coal tar and belongs to a new series of compounds called benzomorphines.

Flemming and the doctors hedged on any predictions as to when the drug might be put into general use.

Mr. Sloan was not a government employee, but rather a professional forester giving his counsel to the government for a fee. He did not assume any of the administrative duties of the forestry department.

His appointment as forestry adviser was for 10 years at an annual salary of $30,000.

When he was B.C. attorney-general, Mr. Sloan prepared and presented a brief to the R. B. Bennett Conservative government in Ottawa which resulted in an additional $750,000 annually from the federal treasury to this province.

A new honor came to Mr. Sloan last March when Queen Elizabeth conferred on him the title of "Honorable" after he had ceased to be Chief Justice. This meant that he retained

Protest Fails To Stop City Tree Removal

Dunedin Street residents will have to be satisfied with double-spaced trees of 10 to 16 feet in height, city parks committee decided Tuesday.

It approved parks administrator W. H. Warren's plan to remove 17 large, old trees as part of a replacement program despite a petition asking that the number and size of boulevard trees should not be reduced.

The committee also learned that its tree removal and replacement program was rejected by the federal government as a project qualifying for the winter work assistance offer to pay 50 per cent of labor costs.

Record Quebec Budget

QUEBEC CITY (UPI)—An all-time record provincial budget of over half a billion dollars for 1959-60 was tabled in the Quebec Legislature Tuesday by Finance Minister Colonel John S. Bourque.

the title for life regardless of his occupation.

Miss Noel Ferguson, secretary to Lands and Forest Minister Ray Williston, recalls she met Gordon Sloan recently in a grocery which specializes in exotic foods.

He chatted with her on the merits of this item and that and seemed to revel in just thinking about the many unusual foods which delight the gourmet.

"Then he bought a package of English biscuits."

Mr. Sloan's cabinet colleagues in the 1933-1941 Liberal administration were Premier T. D. Pattullo, Dr. George Weir, John Hart, Wells Gray, George Pearson, K. C. MacDonald and Frank MacPherson.

The "boy wonder" attorney-general was sworn in on Nov. 15, 1933, 12 days before his election.

The Vancouver Centre election was deferred to Nov. 27 due to the death of Hon. W. J. Bowser.

Mr. Sloan led the poll, which also elected Gordon Wismer. Mr. Wismer later served as attorney-general in Liberal and coalition governments.

U.S. Tax Officer Here Next Month To Aid Nationals

A representative of the United States Internal Revenue Service will visit the U.S. Consulate-General in Vancouver Feb. 2 to 20 and from March 23 to April 15 to assist taxpayers in filing their U.S. 1958 income tax returns.

U.S. citizens employed abroad must file federal income tax returns for 1958 even though their income earned outside the U.S. may be exempt from tax.

Citizens of Canada and other countries who derive income from U.S. sources will also be required to file income tax returns for the 1958 taxable year on or before April 15 next.

Income tax forms and guides may be obtained from the U.S. Consulate, Burrard Building, Vancouver.

'MY CHILDREN NEXT DOOR'

Fire-Dazed Mother Misguided Rescuers

COURTENAY — While her child lay suffocating in their burning home, a dazed mother told would-be rescuers the house was empty.

Events of the tragedy that took the life of four-year-old Teresa Kathleen La Fortune last Wednesday were recounted Monday night before a coroner's jury.

Verdict of accidental death, no blame attached, was returned after the jury heard testimony of seven witnesses, including those who met Mrs. Jean La Fortune as she stumbled from the fire at 10 p.m. Jan. 7.

"I asked her if there was anyone else in the house," said Mrs. Jean Zaleschuk, who was in the adjacent Courtenay Hotel when fire broke out.

"No, my children are next door," Mrs. La Fortune replied.

"If we had known then, we could have got the child out," the witness said.

Evidence disclosed that Mrs. La Fortune had consumed two sleeping pills earlier in the evening and fallen asleep watching television. The fire was started by one of her cigarettes, police said.

THIS WORLD OF OURS

People and Things

BATON ROUGE, La.—A visitor unfamiliar with pedestrian traffic signals telephoned police headquarters Tuesday asking directions to the state capitol.

Desk Sgt. M. K. Gunby asked the caller his location. The man stepped outside his phone booth then returned: "I'm at the corner of 'Walk' and 'Don't Walk.'"

WARREN, Pa.—Richard J. Fairchild, 22, of Corry, told police he encountered two women motorists Tuesday with a flat tire. After he helped change the tire one of the women said: "Here's your reward," and shot him with a rifle. Fairchild is in fair condition.

HARTFORD, Conn. — The state of Connecticut recognizes a woman's ability to remain the same age for several years.

Insurance commissioner Alfred N. Premo has authorized life insurance companies to accept—if they want to—in correct ages for women who seek insurance.

But there's a limit. The law says women may be only three years older than they say they are.

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt — Nine romantic couples were acquitted today on charges of kissing in the movies when Judge Roushdy Abaza ruled that a policeman "illegitimately" used a flashlight to catch them.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska — Two men aroused by police at 3.30 a.m. as they snoozed peacefully on the frozen Chena River here had a ready explanation.

Harold Griffin and Jack Moore said they were just making good on a bet they could spend the night comfortably in their sleeping bags. The thermometer showed 35 below zero.

MARRAKESH, Morocco — Sir Winston Churchill, vacationing here, visited the teeming bazaars of Marrakesh Tuesday. He was cheered by Berber craftsmen who for generations have worked in leather, brass, pottery and silk brocade.

Signing This Year For Library Pact

The proposed public library agreement is expected to be signed this year—five years after negotiations began.

Oak Bay Reeve George Murdoch Tuesday indicated to intermunicipal committee that his council is prepared to endorse the agreement which would bind the Greater Victoria municipalities to sharing operating and capital costs of the city library.

The reeve's announcement leaves Esquimalt as the final hurdle to conclusion of the protracted negotiations. Victoria and Saanich agreed to sign last year.

WURTELE UNHAPPY

Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtele protested criticism against the municipality for its delay.

He said his council had received a copy of the draft agreement only last month and it will be studied soon.

Mayor Percy Scourrah asked whether the municipality would be prepared to state its decision at the February meeting of the committee.

"We'll try to be ready then," said Reeve Wurtele.

Signing of the agreement would give the outlying municipalities voting members on the library board.

Half the total receipts of Norway's state-licensed soccer pools is paid back in prizes, the rest going to promote science and sports.

QUEEN, PRINCE PHILIP START TOUR JUNE 18

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip will begin their Canadian visit June 18, Buckingham Palace announced today.

The Queen will open the St. Lawrence Seaway during the six-week tour. The palace has not yet announced any details of the tour.

Fiscal Policy Fight to Mark Ottawa Session

OTTAWA (UPI)—The second session of Canada's lopsided 24th Parliament opens Thursday with the feature spotlight squarely on the nation's economy.

Governor-General Vincent Massey will formally open the session Thursday afternoon by reading the Speech From the Throne, outlining the government's legislative plans, to a formally-attired assemblage of members of Parliament, senators, supreme court justices and diplomats in the red senate chamber.

Two Conservative MP's representing east and west—Warner Jorgenson, of Provencher, Man., and by-election winner Louis Fortin, of Montmagny-L'Islet, Que.—will perform the traditional moving and seconding of the Throne speech Friday.

The real Throne debate, a 10-day affair, will get underway Monday with opposition leader Lester Pearson the lead-off man.

While the numerical standing in the Commons will be unchanged from the first session, which ended Sept. 6, most observers expect a radical change in atmosphere.

Stiffer Opposition Expected

The opposition, which spent most of the 117-day opening session regrouping after the mammoth Conservative election victory last March 31, is expected to be in a much more belligerent mood this time.

The Liberals and the tiny CCF group will undoubtedly centre their attack on the government's economic policy, with special reference to the related unemployment problem.

Government figures, expected early next week, will probably show a mid-December jobless total in the vicinity of 500,000 persons.

The government, while defending its housing and winter works programs as solid measures to meet the unemployment problem, is also expected to put forth one new measure in this field.

Labor Minister Michael Starr has indicated that the present $30 a week limit on unemployment insurance benefits may be raised.

Among the forms of the Liberal and Socialist attack on this front will take will undoubtedly be the perennial opposition cry of "too little, too late."

Debates on government policy will include battles on both what the government has done and is planning to do.

The cabinet, headed by Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Finance Minister Fleming, will defend the decision of last spring's budget to meet the recession by heavy government spending rather than large-scale tax cuts.

The opposition will counter with the argument that government policy has not only failed to revive economic activity, but at the same time has also created a serious inflationary situation.

New Budget to Increase Taxes?

As for future policy, Fleming's 1959 budget, to be laid before Parliament in early spring, will contain the government's decision pro or con on an increase in taxation to meet inflation.

Should the government decide to boost taxes, the Liberals and CCFers will point to Conservative election statements of the past two campaigns that the nation was already over-taxed.

Should the Diefenbaker administration decide against raising taxes, the opposition will be ready with cries of government irresponsibility in dealing with the problem of inflation.

Present indications are that a tax boost will be forthcoming.

On the legislative side, two of the biggest items to be introduced by the government will be ones left over from the summer session. A bill of rights and a motion to abolish the controversial closure rule, both under the Prime Minister's name, were left unfinished and will be reintroduced.

Among the new items, some form of government legislation to settle Canada's railway revenue problem is expected and will undoubtedly produce considerable controversy. Some reports say the cabinet has been considering subsidizing the two major railways.

The House itself will be unchanged despite the four by-elections held since the September adjournment. The re-election of Conservatives in Grenville, Dundas, Ont., and Springfield, Man., and a government victory in traditionally Liberal Montmagny-L'Islet balanced out a Liberal gain in Toronto Trinity and left party standings as follows:

Conservatives, 208; Liberals, 49, and CCF, eight.

Present indications are that the winter session may be a marathon one stretching into mid-summer. Few observers expect House business to be completed before the Royal visit scheduled to begin in mid-June.

'Lively' Liberals Prepared

OTTAWA CP—Opposition Leader Pearson said today the Liberals "are much livelier than they were a year ago."

He presided at a day-long caucus of Liberal MPs to plan "party organization and tactics" at the new session of Parliament opening Thursday.

At the noon adjournment he told a reporter: "We had a general exchange of views and discussed various issues with vigor and enthusiasm. The members showed themselves much livelier than a year ago—for obvious reasons."

The Liberals were badly beaten at the polls in the March 31 election last year. Since then there has been a gradual regathering of forces. The Liberals now argue that the recession has given them stronger ammunition against the powerful Progressive Conservative government.

No New Executions

HAVANA (AP)—A presidential secretary today denied that executions of persons accused of crimes under the Batista regime had been suspended. However, there were no new reports of executions.

He also told a National Press Club audience that he wants to find out from Anastas I. Mikoyan whether the Russians "are so sick of the armament burden that they want to find a way out of this dilemma."

He thought Mikoyan, first deputy Russian premier and right-hand man of Premier Khrushchev, should be trying to find out the same thing from him.

The two will meet here Saturday, Eisenhower said he has no intention of making any new proposals to Mikoyan because that would transform an informal talk into a kind of conference negotiation.

Turning to German issues, Eisenhower endorsed in his own words the stand taken Tuesday by State Secretary Dulles. Dulles rejected the Russian plan for a neutralized Germany and said Western policy must insist on a Germany integrated into Western Europe.

DIEFENBAKER SHOCKED BY SLOAN'S PASSING

The death today of The Hon. Gordon McG. Sloan brought instant words of regret from Prime Minister John Diefenbaker in Ottawa.

The prime minister said he was "shocked to hear of the death of the former Chief Justice of British Columbia, who was both an outstanding jurist and a public servant, throughout a most distinguished career."

'Sloan Worked For People Until Very End'

By PETE LOUDON

Gordon Sloan worked for the province and the people until the very end.

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston disclosed this morning that during his recent illness the former chief justice and forestry adviser to the province carried on with the affairs of his office, even during a sojourn in hospital.

Mr. Williston said that only on Tuesday did Mr. Sloan pause in his endeavors.

"I talked to his house yesterday. They told me he had a virus infection and was instructed to lay off for a week."

His devotion to duty, to the province and the people was mentioned in hundreds of tributes today—tributes which place Gordon Sloan as one of the great men of his time in British Columbia.

The same reverence was expressed by leaders of government, business and industry—and by the "little people" of the province.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett and members of his cabinet walked to a meeting solemnly. The premier's eyes were tear-filled. Each spoke words of sorrow and exalted Mr. Sloan's memory.

Here are the tributes:

Premier W. A. C. Bennett—"It is a saddened province this morning. I am in such a state of shock, I can't think of anything." But later his office released a statement:

"I was shocked early this morning to learn that the former chief justice of British Columbia, the Honorable Gordon McGreggor Sloan passed away suddenly at his home. His death is a great loss, both to the government and the people of British Columbia."

"The former chief justice has served the province well over the whole period of his life."

"In his young manhood he was a member of the Legislature, and at the time of his appointment was the youngest Attorney-General in Canada. In recognition of his great ability, he was appointed Chief Justice at an unusually early age for that position."

"Even though that position called for tremendous capabilities and energy, he also devoted freely of his time to the good of the province in fields very close to his heart, in labor market matters and in the field of forestry. In both of these fields his knowledge was recognized as outstanding on the continent."

"Though I knew that he has been ill for some little time, we all thought he was making great recovery, and his sudden passing was a great shock."

"All British Columbia mourns his passing, and Mrs. Bennett and myself especially wish to express our heartfelt sympathy to his widow, Mrs. Sloan, and to his son and daughter."

Macy's Basement Intrigues Mikoyan

NEW YORK (AP)—Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan dropped into Macy's department store today. He headed straight for the bargain basement.

Mikoyan got a bit of special treatment. He was ushered in for his store tour half an hour before the morning opening hour, and thus was spared the usual shopping throngs.

Later Mikoyan was to take a pulse sounding of the American financial system in a lunch with Wall Street bankers.

The return of the Russian trade expert to New York Tuesday night provoked relatively little disturbance.

Although several hundred anti-Communist European refugees had been alerted for picket duty at Idlewild Airport, only about 20 showed up. They were herded off by police to a distant parking lot behind a wire fence, too far away for Mikoyan to see their placards.

An ominous warning followed Mikoyan from Los Angeles where Police Chief William H. Parker said foreign intelligence sources warned him Mikoyan "would not be allowed to leave this country alive."

Parker did not elaborate.

By A. H. STOTT

The Hon. Gordon McGreggor Sloan, 60, forestry adviser to the provincial government and former Chief Justice of British Columbia, died at his home, 1029 Beach Drive, shortly before 3 a.m. today.

He had been convalescing from a coronary occlusion suffered last November and had been released from hospital Dec. 31.

Death came suddenly and unexpectedly, when all indications were that Mr. Sloan was on the road to recovery.

Recent visitors described him as appearing "in good spirits," looking well, and hoping for a return to his duties within a few months.

Funeral Services Set for Friday

Funeral services will be held at Christ Church Cathedral Friday at 2 p.m. The Most Rev. Harold E. Sexton, Archbishop of British Columbia, will officiate.

Burial will take place at Royal Oak Burial Park in the family plot, Hayward's B.C. Funeral Co. Ltd. is in charge of arrangements.

The services, expected to draw one of the largest crowds of mourners of any funeral of recent times, will be attended by senior government officials, as well as dignitaries from the bench, the church and from all other professions and occupations.

Tributes flowing in today from men and women in all walks of life bore testimony to the respect and affection in which Mr. Sloan was held. A unique combination of perceptive mind, broad vision, sound judgment, intense powers of concentration and personal charm early marked

Gordon Sloan for eminence in the affairs of his country.

Born at Nanaimo, May 16, 1898, he was raised in the family of a distinguished father, the Hon. William Sloan, leading figure in British Columbia's Liberal politics and member of provincial cabinets.

Following a private school education, he enlisted in Canada during the First World War, serving overseas with the RFC and RAF.

On his return he studied law, was called and admitted to the bar in 1921 and practiced with the firm of Farris and Company until he entered politics in the provincial general election of 1933. He was elected by Vancouver Centre and was appointed attorney-general in the administration of Premier T. D. Pattullo the same year, then the youngest attorney-general in history at 35.

Days of Unemployment Troubles

Those were days of high unemployment and deep trouble for British Columbia. As attorney-general it was his duty to promulgate and carry through the House legislation to meet the difficulties of the era.

In 1937, while still under 40, he was elevated to Court of Appeal, a young man serving with veterans on the bench. His capacities carried him to the Chief Justiceship by 1944 and his judgments have become authorities frequently cited.

It was a mark of his abilities that he was chosen for important investigations into matters of great public consequence in the role of royal commissioner.

In 1940 he presided over inquiries into the salmon fisheries of British Columbia for the federal government. Two years later he had been recruited to head a royal commission studying the provincial Workmen's Compensation Act and its administration for the province.

With each hearing the public acclaimed the stature of Mr. Justice Sloan. His services continued in demand.

provincial government to invite him to utilize his knowledge and ability in that field in more direct form. He accepted the invitation and, to the applause of virtually all connected with the woods and the wood industries, became provincial adviser on all matters related to the forest resources.

In the intervening years he had carried on his interrupted duties as presiding officer over the Court of Appeal, had assumed the post of the official administrator when the Lieutenant-Governor was away from the city, discharging with customary dignity and efficiency the responsibilities of the sovereign's representative, and had been called for numerous other outside tasks.

Among them were the offices of arbitrator for the national railway dispute in 1954-55, and mediator in labor

H. R. MacMillan, leading British Columbia industrialist, said:

"This is a greater loss than one can imagine. Gordon Sloan was dedicated to serving not only the forest industry, but indeed the whole public of B.C."

"His forest legislation exemplified his patience, sense of justice, and protection of all interests. He had the confidence of labor, of the electorate, and of forest industry managers."

"His death leaves a terrible vacuum. He would have been a source of strength to this province for years to come."

"I called on him at his home in Victoria on Jan. 2 and found him in good spirits, and looking well."

"He was getting encouraging reports from the doctor and I believe had been told he could start to walk in his garden in a week's time."

"It was a terrible shock to hear the news this morning."

Capt. F. G. Hart, secretary and assistant to Mr. Sloan, recalled the last instructions of Mr. Sloan were that his staff proceed with the paper work concerned with an investigation of forest management licence matters near Squamish.

"Mr. Sloan never slowed his work as death approached. Even in hospital, he did a few letters to while away the time."

Lands and Forests Minister Williston elaborated on Capt. Hart's statement—"I am sure Mr. Sloan's dedication to the job even surmounted his doctor's orders. His efforts in recent weeks, while he was sick, must have played a part in his untimely passing. Even in hospital, he had his stenographer, and had written to Empire Mills (a main land firm involved in his most recent inquiry) to get information he could work on in his convalescence."

"He shouldn't have been working. I wrote and told him to forget it. He wouldn't stay down. He was always pushing on the reins."

"I think his death will be a severe loss to the people of the province in general and the forest industry in particular, and to myself as an individual charged with responsibility for its administration."

"In any country, there are too few people with his outstanding qualities of direct approach, clear thinking, decisive, precise ability to reach the right decision. He dedicated himself to serve the people."

"We've been most fortunate to have a man of his value with us. His reports and commissions have laid the basis for a forestry program in this province which is in the forefront of the policies of the continent."

Where will B.C. find a man to take over Mr. Sloan's task?

"He was unique," answered the minister. "No man has the same background, the same prestige and effect. His only approach was what was right. There was no question of merely substantiating a government point of view."

The minister added that his last letter from Gordon Sloan concerned proposed legislation regarding setting up advisory boards to share forest administration and policy forming. "That will continue."

E. T. Kenney, former minister of lands and forests, (1944 to 1952), who went into the legislature with Mr. Sloan in 1933:

"It came as a great shock. He was one of the most brilliant men in the province. Apart from his jurisprudence, he will long be remembered for his contribution to forestry."

"His first report, in Jan. 1945, undoubtedly revolutionized forestry thinking throughout the province. It is the greatest contribution to provincial forestry of all time."

At Vancouver, spokesmen for the International Woodworkers of America said the death of Gordon Sloan removes from public service "One of the most capable conciliators and arbitrators this province has ever known."

The union headquarters said the word of his passing was received "with deep regret" by all officers and members.

"This will leave a void that is going to be difficult to fill, because his knowledge of industry and people was such as to give him great understanding of the many varied and complex problems that have faced labor and management over the years," the union statement added.

Mayor Percy Scurrell—"It is a great loss to the province. He was a man who contributed a great deal to the economic and political life of the province."

Most Rev. Harold F. Sexton, Archbishop of British Columbia: "In my judgment, Gordon Sloan was the greatest of our public men. A man of the highest integrity and modesty, he merited the complete confidence of the public, and his passing is a great loss to us all."

Dr. C. D. Orchard, until recently deputy minister of lands in the B.C. government, said:

"I am deeply shocked by Mr. Sloan's death. I held him in the very highest regard and his passing is a major loss to the province."

"He had a tremendous capacity for hard work and in all the years I knew him he rarely talked about anything else."

Dr. Orchard worked closely with Mr. Sloan on two royal forestry commissions.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner: "It was quite a shock to hear the news. It is difficult to adequately express my personal sense of loss. His career in public life and on the bench and as royal commissioner to several governments is unique, and was of tremendous value to B.C."

Edwin E. Pearlman, QC, president, Victoria Bar Association:

"The late Mr. Sloan was one of our outstanding jurists and an ornament of the profession."

"It is quite unique that the master agreement between the IWA and the Forest Industrial Relations (management) contained a clause, naming Mr. Sloan as the person who would settle any grievances which might arise."

"This is a mark of the confidence they had in him. He is a great loss to the province and the profession. Our deepest sympathies go out to his family."

Mrs. Dorothy Hewitt-White, well-known Victoria secretary, paid tribute to Mr. Sloan as "a kind and courteous employer."

Mrs. White said she had taken on various secretarial assignments for Mr. Sloan over the past 35 years, including the Fisheries Commission.

"He was far from being a glad-hander and he was not an easy man to know. Yet in his quiet reserved way he was always kind and considerate to those who worked for him."

"In his youth he was an exceptionally handsome man of fine bearing. It is a tragedy that such a brilliant mind should be lost to the province."

Mrs. White said some people found Mr. Sloan somewhat humorless but she recognized in him "a quiet sense of humor that went deep."

Praise for Hon. Gordon Sloan's years as a judge and his work "to establish sound legal and equitable principles" in the province came from noted legal men in Victoria and Vancouver.

Speaking on behalf of the B.C. Supreme Court, presiding judge, Mr. Justice N. W. Whittaker, said:

"His was a very keen legal mind and during his years on the bench his decisions did much to establish sound legal and equitable principles."

"His services to the public outside the field of law were very great and well known."

"On my own behalf and on behalf of my colleagues, I would like to extend deepest sympathy to Mrs. Sloan and to her family."

Mention of the 20 years Mr. Sloan served as a member of the B.C. Court of Appeal was made by the court's presiding judge, Mr. Justice C. H. O'Halloran.

In an address before the court, Mr. Justice O'Halloran said Mr. Sloan was Chief Justice of the court for 13 years.

"He was a man of many talents," the judge added, "and a man of diverse energies. His death leaves a great void in the public life of this province."

Mr. Justice O'Halloran lauded Mr. Sloan's work as conciliator in labor-management disputes, noting also that "his name will be long remembered for the extensive reports he made as royal commissioner on the forest industry and workmen's compensation matters."

Speaking for the B.C. Bar as the senior member present in court, John A. MacInnes, QC, said Mr. Sloan had reached "a standing when his mere name meant more than any title."

Tribute by Victoria Bar members was voiced by A. B. Russ, who mentioned "the tremendous regard and admiration" felt for Mr. Sloan by all who knew him.

Col. C. C. Merritt, VC, on behalf of the Vancouver bar, said Mr. Sloan had reached "tremendous prominence for his accuracy of decisions in management-labor disputes."

PICKED BY NEWSMEN 1956 'MAN OF YEAR'

Hon. Gordon Sloan in 1956 was named British Columbia's "Man of the Year."

The honor was bestowed by the Newsmen's Club of B.C. at its annual banquet. Other winners have included Premier Bennett and B.C. Electric president A. E. Grauer.

In private he was a man of wry wit, of deep enjoyment in reading, pottering in his garden, or playing an occasional round of golf, of finding time to assist in the work of the Boy Scouts and endorsing community causes. The University of British Columbia honored with him an LLD degree.

He is survived by the widow at home, one daughter Mrs. Sherwood "Bunty" Marshall; a son, David G., both of Victoria, and five grandchildren.

These were some of the official duties which claimed the physical reserves of a brilliant native son—one who chose to remain here in spite of invitations from the federal government to join the Supreme Court of Canada and in spite of efforts to bring him back to active politics as a provincial Liberal leader.

Won Tribute From Sloan

In October 1942, at the height of the Second World War, Mr. Sloan wrote a ringing tribute to men and women of the armed forces in an editorial page article in The Times.

"What are we asked to do?—those of us who remain?" he asked. "We are asked to loan our money so that these fighting Canadians—our own flesh and blood—may be armed to fight our war for us."

"That is our challenge. History will record, for a thousand years to come, our answer to it."

Oh, the baby is wonderful—but I'm running out of clothes drying room!

But Helen, that's why automatic dryers were invented!

With an automatic washer and dryer you can wash and dry every day if need be, at any time that's convenient to you, and without any worries about the weather. A lot of the work of washday is eliminated, especially the lifting and hanging of heavy wet clothes, when you install a modern, automatic home laundry. Ask your dealer for a demonstration.

Aldermen Pounce On 'Fund-Money'

A little-known clause in the amended Public Schools Act was seized with glee by inter-municipal committee Tuesday as a method of squeezing $83,186 out of the provincial government.

The clause provides that municipalities can charge the school board for services such as police and fire protection, roads and sewers.

The committee sent a letter to school board informing it the municipal charge will be 12 mills—a tit for tat arrangement. The municipalities now pay 12 mills to the government for educational services.

FIRST-TIME

The school board will pass on the bill to the provincial government, making it the first time that municipalities have been able to get the government to pay for any municipal services.

Under the arrangement, proposed by Saanich comptroller-treasurer John Tribe, Victoria will receive $35,124; Saanich, $28,335; Oak Bay, $11,074, and Esquimalt, $8,651.

"It's found money," chuckled Mayor Percy Scurrell when the committee took its action.

DANNY THOMAS confesses, "I made a bargain with a saint!"

In The Saturday Evening Post this week you'll read one of the most remarkable stories ever told by an entertainer.

A two-buck beer-garden entertainer, he was at the end of his rope, getting nowhere, ready to quit. Then, suddenly, he discovered a long-forgotten saint.

"Help me," he prayed, "to go to the top, and I'll build you a shrine for the poor, the helpless, the hopeless."

In an exclusive (and amazingly frank) interview by Pete Martin in this week's Post, you'll learn the miraculous way Danny Thomas' whole career suddenly changed from that moment on:

• how an unexpected trip to Chicago brought him a "sign"

• how, almost by chance, the right man caught his act

• the fantastic manner in which he was suddenly booked into a top New York night club

• how Milton Berle, whom he hardly knew, came to his rescue on opening night

• and how Danny Thomas today, tops on TV, is keeping his bargain with St. Jude

Don't miss Pete Martin's "I Call on Danny Thomas."

The Pope's Commandos

Why is the most influential order of the Roman Catholic Church also the most suspected and maligned? Here are little-known facts about the Jesuits, their enemies, friends and inside the Church! Here, too, is the story of their training, their discipline, their colleges and universities, and how they follow their motto, "For the Greater Glory of God!"

It's a wonderful week in the Post... 7 articles, 4 stories, 2 serials, many cartoons and exciting photographs.

A CURTIS MAGAZINE

Music hath charms to soothe the savage beast, his said, but it takes more than a few charms to soothe the box of fife, Victoria Symphony Society learned Tuesday.

The society is running $8,000 on the "loss" side of the ledger, so a week-long campaign will be held early in spring to sell season tickets.

FULL VALUE

"But this is no charity drive," temporary society chairman Douglas Abbott pointed out. "Ticket buyers will get full value for their money."

The canvass was outlined to the society's meeting by a committee headed by Arnold Webb.

The city directory will be attacked for names and special canvassing teams will be appointed.

STUDENT SHOWS

In other society activity, two student concerts were proposed, one to be held in February, the other in March. Cost will be borne by the society, out of a $10,000 Canada Council grant.

The meeting was told the women's committee expected to raise another $2,000 for the society, to follow $3,000 already contributed.

Attacked by Fox

MIDDLETOWN, N.Y. (AP)—Phillip Nugent, a coffee salesman, was attacked by a fox Tuesday as he was making a delivery here. Twice Nugent beat the animal back, sustaining scratches about the head, face and hands in the process. Nugent then dashed to his truck and ran down the animal.

WAITING TO ENTER B.C. Court of Appeal Tuesday were these eight Victoria and Vancouver lawyers, part of 32 who spent almost two hours helping five judges prepare the calendar for the court's session due to end late in February. Civil cases only, plus the Sommers-Gray bribery and conspiracy appeal, will be heard in Victoria; criminal appeals will be in Vancouver.

DATE-FIXING SESSION IN COURT OF APPEAL

Judges, Lawyers Grapple With Gaps

By DAVID COWLISHAW
Mr. Justice C. H. O'Halloran rubbed his chin for a moment, then unleashed a quick smile at the middle-aged lawyer standing before him.

NO GAPS

For almost two hours the robed practitioners of the law, watched by four spectators, wrestled with the calendar, trying to form a list as compact and "gap-less" as possible.

One difficulty that popped up at least three times was the need for one lawyer in a case to be at a court elsewhere in the province on an appeal date sought by the opposing lawyer. Several lawyers asked for their cases to be heard in Vancouver. Another lawyer wanted an appeal transferred to Vancouver.

ver "because both counsel in the case live on Vancouver Island."

"You say you want this case heard in Vancouver because both counsel will be in Vancouver at the time—haven't you a better reason than that?"

"Well, no, my lord. My instructions..."

SUITABLE GROUNDS

"You had better get some more instructions," the judge said. "We can't have Victoria cases transferred to Vancouver without good cause. I have said it before—there must be suitable grounds before a case can be transferred to Vancouver. Who's next?"

The exchange conducted with cordiality and good humor was one of many heard in B.C. Court of Appeal in Victoria Tuesday when five judges and 32 lawyers set about fixing dates for 59 civil appeals (21 are ready for hearing so far) to be heard before the court winds up in the last week in February.

CHUCKLES

This was construed as "an attempt by counsel to get off Vancouver Island" and brought delighted chuckles from the five-judge bench.

"That's not a very good reason," commented Mr. Justice O'Halloran, senior judge. (The court is headed by Chief Justice A. C. Des Brisay, but he was in Vancouver and his place was taken by the next senior judge.)

One lawyer asked for an appeal hearing "as late as possible because we (both parties in the case) are discussing a settlement."

Another lawyer began addressing the bench (termed "speaking to the list") by saying, "I am asking for a special date, but he was quickly interrupted by Mr. Justice O'Halloran with:

"I can't give it to you, I'm afraid."

BROUGHT SCANDAL TO MARY ASTOR

Screen Star's Sizzling Diary Basis for New 'Confessional'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I kept a diary because my mother had kept one. . . . I wanted the assurance of individuality and reality and substance that the diary gave me."

Thus Mary Astor explains why she kept a daily record in her heyday as a Hollywood star. In 1936 the diary—with additions Miss Astor says were forged—produced one of film-dom's most blazing scandals. And now it has helped bring forth a frank autobiography, "My Story". The actress writes:

"The diary was a consolation and a reassurance. But when it was no longer in my possession it was suddenly transformed into a monster that threatened to devour me and my friends, and, worst of all, Marilyn."

Marilyn was her four-year-old daughter by Dr. Franklin Thorne. He had won legal custody of the girl in a divorce. Miss Astor sued for custody and a lurid battle seemed certain. Thorne was armed with his ex-wife's diary.

The diary was locked up by the court, but a purported version was leaked to the press. It featured a "box score" of Hollywood's famous males with purple comments. Miss Astor claims the bootlegged diary was a forgery. It was faked by a well-known figure who appeared in the real diary and feared the consequences. So he showed a phony one to Hollywood bosses, hoping he would force her to drop the suit. She refused.

Miss Astor says the published version of her diary's account of her "romantic and sentimental" friendship with playwright George Kaufman was true. She says: "George was an extremely attractive man, for all his ungainly frame and saturnine mien."

DIARY DESTROYED

The diary never entered the custody case because it had been mutilated and was inadmissible as evidence. Miss Astor won custody of Marilyn for nine months of the year. The diary was impounded and finally destroyed in 1952.

But enough of the actress' diary remained to combine with her memories in a book

Besides the Chief Justice, other member of the court is Mr. Justice Sidney Smith.

Mr. Justice O'Halloran began by declaring that the criminal appeals (there are 63) will be heard by the court's second division in Vancouver beginning today, the civil cases in Victoria.

SOMMERS' APPEAL

The Victoria appeal court will also hear the appeal "Regina versus Robert Sommers (former lands and forests minister) and (timber executive) H. Wilson Gray."

The Sommers-Gray appeal is set for Feb. 16 and expected to last a week.

The B.C. Court of Appeal is the final court of appeal in the province. A sentence may be appealed to the Supreme Court of Canada, but that is a person's last recourse (although a sentence to hang may be commuted by the Minister of Justice to life imprisonment.) Until a few years ago an appeal could be lodged before the Privy Council in Britain, but this practice has been discontinued.

'Artful Simplicity' For Text Book Car

We can think of no more appropriate subject to launch the 1959 series of motor columns than to pay tribute to, and review the history of, a famous and brilliant small car which is entering its tenth year of production in virtually unchanged form — the Morris Minor.

No more positive proof of the brilliance of this car's conception is necessary than to point to many other makes of similarly small car of much more recent vintage, none of which surpasses the Morris Minor in all those desirable qualities by which the performance—hans Gruber—ance, road-behavior, and economy of running are judged.

In reaching its tenth birthday, the Morris Minor is at the half-way mark of production records established by two other famous makes of car of long ago—the Model T Ford, and the Rolls-Royce "Silver Ghost," they having continued to be made in practically their original form for 20 years.

Among First Three

But—sentimentality aside—whereas their revision had been ripe ten years after introduction, and long overdue when finally it was undertaken in 1927, the Morris Minor, on the other hand, was so incomparably far ahead of competition when it saw the light of day at that sensational London Motor Show of 1919 that, by 1959, it continues to be regarded as being among the first three passenger cars made, anywhere and at any price, in respect of road-behavior.

Even among the smaller imported sedans, particularly British ones, which have taught us new standards of road-holding and handling, the Morris Minor remains the standard in these respects by which even the latest models of the others are judged.

Simple, Orthodox

The miracle of the Morris Minor is the more astonishing for the essential simplicity and utter orthodoxy of its engineering. Whereas there are today other small cars—and extremely good ones—which are "different," i.e., engine in the trunk, or front wheel drive, or air-cooled, or with complicated suspension systems, or with "pancake" engines, or with three cylinders, etc., etc., the Morris Minor could serve as the "text-book" car in any mechanics' school as the typical example of contemporary design.

True, this car did not evolve overnight: It was, rather, fully 13 years in the making, counting the war years during which development work was skeletal. But it was in 1936 when the now-famous British engineer, Alec Issigonis, set to work at Morris Motors, Ltd., with a clean sheet, to create what we know today as the Morris Minor.

Painstaking Work

In the course of his development work, he tried every one of the features, and then some, mentioned above in connection with the less orthodox cars. It was by this painstaking and round-about process that the final design was distilled into the artful simplicity as we know it today.

The first Morris Minor had a side-valve engine of less than one litre displacement, the only component inherited from the previous Model E Morris—918 c.c. to be exact. Those who knew no better accused the car of being under-powered, especially since the engine was connected through a transmission and differential of exceptional high gearing.

The case really was that the chassis had a margin of stamina and safety which the power of the engine could not begin to exhaust—which is still true today in respect of the latest Morris Minor "1000" with its far more powerful engine.

Merger in 1951

In 1951 came the amalgamation of Morris Motors, Ltd., and Austin of England, into the British Motor Corporation, as a result of which, in 1953, the Morris Minor received the smaller but more modern overhead-valve engine of 803 c.c., together with the small Austin transmission and rear axle of considerably lower gearing.

In 1957 came the third development of the Minor, into what may well be its ideal form—known today as the Morris Minor "1000". An enlarged overhead-valve engine of 948 c.c. is fitted, together with the original, high final drive ratio of 4.55:1, and what a great little machine this current Minor is!

Forty m.p.h. is quite common, 60 m.p.h. available in third gear, top speed in the high seventies, sustained cruising speed around seventy with tenacious road-holding and absolutely true, straight-line running—with no possibility of hurting the high-grade engine with its lead-in bearings and chrome-hardened top piston ring.

The marvellous rack-and-pinion steering is positive, with absolutely no lost motion, at speed, and as easy as if it were power-assisted while parking. Incidentally, the only car we can recall which, as a convertible, neither costs nor weighs more than its closed counterpart.

Captain James Cook, the 18th-century English navigator, was a haberdasher's apprentice when he ran away to sea.

MONTE ROBERTS

OUR VERY OWN ISLAND DIGEST

(Our V.O. Correspondents were asked if their communities would be willing to assist Victoria in getting the Pan-American Games.)

WOBBLE HILL, V.I.—We haven't had much experience with games here, this being a hard-working community devoted to good hard work and progress.

However, the men folk at oge time got together and staged a series of snake and ladders games, which went along fine until somebody found out the dice were loaded. Lem Fudd used to play a slightly different version of spin the bottle. Instead of spinning the bottle, Lem drank the contents and did the spinning personally.

However, Lem had to give this up, as there is so much water in what comes in bottles these days his stomach was getting rusty.

So you see we do not know much about games here. But wish Victoria every luck and all.

CUTTING CORNERS, V.I.—It is unlikely Victoria will get much support from Cutting Corners with regard to getting the games.

Not that we wouldn't like to assist but we will be pretty busy ourselves.

We are attempting to promote an international convention of nudists here, which would of course be the Skin Games.

WALLOPEM BEACH, V.I.—As far as games are concerned, this bustling, bustling community has had its share of fun and games.

But not right now, this being the off-season, like.

LUNCHVILLE, V.I.—A quick poll of the opinion of the man in the street shows that the average Lunchville citizen is all in favor of Victoria getting the Pan-American Games.

(It was a quick poll because there was only one man on the street at the time, as there usually is.)

The man on the street said yes, Victoria should get the Pan-American Games.

"They pan everything else down there," he said. "Why shouldn't they pan the American games?"

GOON CENTRE, B.C.—(In the absence of your regular correspondent Mrs. Abner Goon, this dispatch is written by hand by her husband) Mayor Abner Goon, the chief magistrate and leading citizen of Goon Centre, is willing to assist Victoria stage the Pan-American Games.

Mayor Goon said today he was sure the Games would be an unequalled success if the promoters made sure there was a good, big beauty contest for Queen of the Games, featuring a lot of good, big beauties.

Although it would be at great personal sacrifice, Mayor Goon said he would be willing to judge the great, big beauties in the great, big beauty contest.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Juveniles are believed responsible for making a shambles of Victoria West Lawn Bowling Clubhouse some time Saturday.

Police were told Tuesday afternoon seven large windows and six smaller windows were smashed, 12 light bulbs broken, five large window shades ripped, furniture upturned, teabags, jam and cutlery strewn about and tacks driven into the woodwork.

Two 22 rifles were confiscated under provision of the Game Act in Central Saanich police courts Tuesday.

Derek Lewis Godwin, Sidney, was fined $10 for hunting on private property, on appearance in open court.

A 17-year-old juvenile was fined $10 in juvenile court for the same offence.

The two hunters had shot a raccoon, police said.

A mantel radio was stolen in a burglary of R.C.S.C. Rainbow at the foot of Robert Street between Jan. 10 and 13, city police were told Tuesday.

Annual general meeting of Victoria Unit No. 12, Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans in Canada, will be held 8 p.m. Thursday in the auditorium, 1001 Wharf.

A joint meeting of Victoria Kinsmen Club and the Victoria Isle branch will be held at 7 p.m. Thursday at the James Bay Hotel.

Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtelle, who proposed the step, was named chairman. Other members are Saanich Coun. Charles Nelles, Ald. Geoffrey Dowell and Oak Bay Coun. R. B. Mathews.

John Minnis, 83, of 1608 Quadra, is in good condition at Jubilee Hospital today with chest injury suffered when he was in collision with a car outside the hospital Tuesday evening.

Police said Minnis was walking across Richmond in a pedestrian crossing at Coronation when he was in collision with a car driven by Elsie M. Minnis, 1238 St. Patrick.

Chinese Consolidated Benevolent Association has requested the city to sell the Chinese Hospital to it for $1 so that it can qualify for provincial grants for its expansion program. The association operates the city-owned hospital.

HERE IS ARTIST'S conception of multi-million-dollar regional shopping centre proposed for the Hillside-Shelbourne area. Mayor Percy Scurreh and land developer Milton King today jointly announced plans for the project which will contain 56 stores with 191,000 square feet. Dominion Stores and Super-Valu each will erect 20,000 square-foot supermarkets at opposite ends of the development. Actual buildings will occupy four and one-half acres of the 28-acre site to be known as Hillside Plaza Shopping Centre. Mr. King said a British syndicate is putting up the money for the project. Area in the right foreground is designated for parking and may become site of a department store. Parking is provided for 2,050 cars. Architect is C. B. K. Van Norman, Vancouver. Dual land developers are Toronto realtor Gordon Chapman of Gibson Bros. Ltd. and Mr. King.

MANTHA TO APPEAL MURDER CONVICTION

Notice of appeal against conviction for murder was lodged at Victoria Court Registry today on behalf of Leo Anthony Mantha.

Mantha, 31-year-old tugboatman, was convicted Dec. 17 of the stabbing death of Naden sailor Able Seaman Aaron Hetherington Jenkins, Sept. 6.

The appeal may be heard at the current session of the B.C. Court of Appeal due to end late in February, or at the sittings to begin in March. A date was expected to be set later this week.

Mantha is due to hang March 17.

Improved Service For Sidney-U.S.

Longer period of service and addition of a larger ferry on the Sidney-Anacortes run of Washington State Ferries was announced today by R. I. Birse, general manager.

The state-owned company will start operating out of Sidney March 23, using the Klickitat, newly enlarged to carry 95 cars.

In April one of the newest and largest car and passenger ferries on the Pacific Coast, the Evergreen State, will be added to the service.

FINEST SERVICE

Mr. Birse explained: "Allocation of this equipment to the Sidney service has been made possible by the Canadian government's construction of the new ferry terminal at Sidney, and assignment of these two vessels will provide the southern end of Vancouver Island with the finest ferry service ever available."

Evergreen State features luxurious passenger accommodation and over-size observation windows, ideal for the scenic route through the San Juan Islands.

YEAR ROUND?

Today's announcement details service through to Oct. 31 of this year, but it is believed WSF will extend the service throughout the year if circumstances warrant.

Rumors persist that the CPR will retire Princess Joan and Princess Elizabeth from service this year, and vacate the Victoria-Seattle service.

If this occurs, WSF appears ready to provide year-round connection from the Island to the United States mainland.

Mr. Birse also announced today that the ferry Kalakala again will provide Victoria-Port Angeles service, commencing June 12 and concluding Sept. 15.

The Sidney-Anacortes service will operate one round trip daily from March 23 to May 21, leaving Anacortes at 8:30 a.m. and Sidney at 12:50 p.m.

TWO ROUND TRIPS

From May 22 through June 11, the service will be increased to two round trips, leaving Anacortes at 7 a.m. and 1:30 p.m., and Sidney at 10:15 a.m. and 4:45 p.m.

During the busy summer season, June 11 through Sept. 8, there will be three trips a day, leaving Anacortes at 7 a.m. and 10:10 a.m. and 3:20 p.m., leaving Sidney at 9:45 a.m. and 1 and 5:55 p.m.

There will be two round trips daily Sept. 9 through Oct. 12, and one daily Oct. 13 to Oct. 31.

Victoria agent for Washington State Ferries is Blaney's Travel Service Ltd.

2-Car Crash Victim In 'Poor Condition'

A 35-year-old Victoria man was in poor condition today with skull fracture and multiple injuries after the car he drove was in a two-car smash at Ryan and Scott Tuesday at 3 p.m.

Edward D. Miles, 3366 Wordsworth, was unconscious when admitted to Jubilee Hospital and remained semi-conscious Tuesday night.

Impact of the crash, which took place at an intersection where there have been six accidents in as many days, threw the man onto the pavement where he was found by police.

Miles' son, Terry, seven, a passenger in his father's car, was released from hospital after treatment for a leg injury.

Mrs. Shirley Brown, 2604 Scott, passenger in the other car driven by Clare L. Brown, of the same address, was treated for shock and bruises and also released.

There were heavy skid marks left with debris and glass spilled from Miles' car where the driver was thrown to the street.

Miles had been driving west on Ryan, and Brown, recently arrived from Manitoba, was going north on Scott. He said he had been looking for a house.

"I only hope he's all right," Brown kept repeating as he nervously smoked after the crash.

A WREN of the Royal Canadian Navy who formerly served at HMCS Naden will join the royal household at Buckingham Palace this month for one year. Petty Officer Rosalee Auger, 25, has been appointed private secretary to Esmond Butler, Canadian now serving as assistant press secretary to Queen Elizabeth in connection with the royal visit to Canada in June and July. WREN Auger leaves for England Friday, will travel with the royal party during the Canadian visit.

2-Car Crash Victim In 'Poor Condition'

Mrs. C. G. Jackson, 2809 Scott, said there had been six accidents at the corner in the previous six days.

"They need a stop sign here," she said. Her house is second from the intersection. "One car in a crash nearly went through the front door of Mrs. (Annie) Bateman's house next door (2801 Scott)." Mrs. Jackson said.

"There's one car that goes through here nearly every night like a jet."

Mrs. Jackson pointed out that Oaklands School is only a block away up Ryan and that a few minutes later the intersection would have been busy with children going home from school.

RCAF Doubts Large Object Crashed Jet

The RCAF today expressed doubts a large object located underwater near Campbell River is the wreckage of a CF100 jet fighter plane.

Analysis of fibre glass particles brought to the surface by an RCN salvage team from Esquimalt indicates it is not the type used for insulation in the CF100, the RCAF said.

The object, at 450 feet, is too deep for the Navy's underwater television camera.

$5 Million Store Plan Unveiled for Hillside

Two Supermarkets, 2,050-Car Parking

By JOHN MIKA and HAL MALONE

Plans for a British-financed shopping centre in the $5,000,000 bracket at Hillside and Shelbourne were announced today.

Mayor Percy Scurreh and real estate agent Milton King jointly announced the Hillside Plaza Shopping Centre.

Plans call for:

1. About 56 stores constructed on 4½ acres of a 28-acre site bounded by Hillside, Shelbourne, Doncaster and Clawthorpe-North Dairy;
2. Parking space for 2,050 cars;
3. Two supermarkets and two variety stores included in the initial development of 191,500 square feet of retail floor space;
4. Undetermined amount of office space on a second floor;

Competitive Stores Planned

He said there would be several competitive stores in each retail field within the development so "it can truly be called a complete shopping centre because all needs can be satisfied through a choice of merchants."

Mr. King said about 50 to 60 per cent of the floor space will be occupied by national chains, the balance will be reserved for local merchants.

"We could sign the rental agreements for about half the space right now," he said.

Definite developments will be Dominion Stores and Super-Valu supermarkets, each occupying about 20,000 square feet of space. Two variety stores also are definite but he would not name them.

Mr. King said "more than one department store company has had serious discussions with us" but no agreements have been signed.

He said that Gordon Chapman, of the Toronto real estate

'Money Is Not a Problem'

"Money is not a problem," Mr. King said. "The money from Britain is lying in eastern Canada right now."

He would not fix a value on the development. Depending on the number of leases obtained, the total price could vary by about $750,000, he said. But under questioning, it became apparent that about $5,000,000 was involved.

Working drawings for the development have been drafted by the Vancouver architect G. B. K. Van Norman.

Mayor Percy Scurreh said the development would add "substantial" tax revenue to the city's coffers.

But he emphasized that the project would not affect the downtown business core.

"It will make no difference to our off-street parking plan because we still will maintain the great bulk of business downtown regardless of any shopping development on the fringe," he said.

"I'm quite sure there will be other developments downtown

3 CHARGED IN DUNCAN BURGLARY

Three juveniles, all of the Cowichan district, appeared in Duncan police court today on charges of breaking and entering and theft from the T. Eaton Co. Ltd. store in Duncan on the weekend.

A cache of goods identified as having come from the store was found Tuesday in the Skutz Falls, 12 miles west of Duncan on the Cowichan River.

The "take" from the store was valued at $1,700, and included rifles and ammunition, watches, jewelry, radios, and other items. It is believed by store officials and police that recovery is complete.

Entry was gained through a washroom window, according to evidence. The thieves ate some bananas in the store and smoked a few cigarettes before leaving from a freight entrance.

The case is continuing.

Fiscal Policy Fight to Mark Ottawa Session

OTTAWA (UPI)—The second session of Canada's lopsided 24th Parliament opens Thursday with the feature spotlight squarely on the nation's economy.

Governor-General Vincent Massey will formally open the session Thursday afternoon by reading the Speech from the Throne, outlining the government's legislative plans to a formally-attired assemblage of members of Parliament, senators, supreme court justices and diplomats in the red senate chamber.

Two Conservative MPs representing east and west—Warner Jorgenson, of Provencher, Man., and by-election winner Louis Fortin, of Mont-magy-L'Islet, Que.—will perform the traditional moving and seconding of the Throne Speech Friday.

The real Throne debate, a 10-day affair, will get underway Monday with opposition leader Lester Pearson the lead-off man.

While the numerical standing in the Commons will be unchanged from the first session, which ended Sept. 6, most observers expect a radical change in atmosphere.

Stiffer Opposition Expected

The opposition, which spent most of the 117-day opening session regrouping after the mammoth Conservative election victory last March 31, is expected to be in a much more belligerent mood this time.

The Liberals and the tiny CCF group will undoubtedly centre their attack on the government's economic policy, with special reference to the related unemployment problem.

Government figures, expected early next week, will probably show a mid-December unemployed total in the vicinity of 500,000 persons.

The government, while defending its housing and winter works programs as solid measures to meet the unemployment problem, is also expected to put forth one new measure in this field.

Labour Minister Michael Starr has indicated that the present $30 a week limit on unemployment insurance benefits may be raised.

Among the forms the Liberal and Socialist attack on this front will take will undoubtedly be the perennial opposition cry of "too little, too late."

Debates on government policy will include battles both on what the government has done and is planning to do.

The cabinet, headed by Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Finance Minister Fleming, will defend the decision of last spring's budget to meet the recession by heavy government spending rather than large-scale tax cuts.

The opposition will counter with the argument that government policy has not only failed to revive economic activity, but at the same time has also created a serious inflationary situation.

New Budget to Increase Taxes?

As for future policy, Fleming's 1959 budget, to be laid before Parliament in early spring, will contain the government's decision pro or con an increase in taxation to meet inflation.

Should the government decide to boost taxes, the Liberals and CCFers will point to Conservative election statements of the past two campaigns that the nation was already over-taxed.

Should the Diefenbaker administration decide against raising taxes, the opposition will be ready with cries of government irresponsibility in dealing with the problem of inflation.

Present indications are that a tax boost will be forthcoming.

On the legislative side, two of the biggest items to be introduced by the government will be ones left over from the summer session. A bill of rights and a motion to abolish the controversial closure rule.

B.C. MOURNS DEATH OF GORDON SLOAN

Ex-Chief Justice Worked for All Until Very End

By PETE LOUDON

Gordon Sloan worked for the province and the people until the very end.

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston disclosed this morning that during his recent illness the former chief justice and forestry adviser to the province carried on with the affairs of his office, even during a sojourn in hospital.

Mr. Williston said that only on Tuesday did Mr. Sloan pause in his endeavors.

"I talked to his house yesterday. They told me he had a virus infection and was instructed to lay off for a week."

His devotion to duty, to the province and the people was mentioned in hundreds of tributes today—tributes which place Gordon Sloan as one of the great men of his time in British Columbia.

The same reverence was expressed by leaders of government, business and industry—and by the "little people" of the province.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett and members of his cabinet walked to a meeting solemnly. The premier's eyes were tear-filled. Each spoke words of sorrow and exalted Mr. Sloan's memory.

Here are the tributes:

Premier W. A. C. Bennett—"It is a saddened province this morning. I am in such a state of shock, I can't think of anything." But later his office released a statement:

"I was shocked early this morning to learn that the former chief justice of British Columbia, the Honorable Gordon McGregor Sloan passed away suddenly at his home. His death is a great loss, both to the government and the people of British Columbia."

"The former chief justice has served the province well over the whole period of his life."

In his young manhood he was a member of the Legislature, and at the time of his appointment was the youngest Attorney-General in Canada. In recognition of his great ability, he was appointed Chief Justice at an unusually early age for that position.

Even though that position called for tremendous capabilities and energy, he also devoted freely of his time to the good of the province in fields very close to his heart, in labor market matters and in the field of forestry. In both of these fields his knowledge was recognized as outstanding on the continent.

"Though I knew that he has been ill for some little time, we all thought he was making great recovery, and his sudden passing was a great shock."

"All British Columbia mourns his passing, and Mrs. Bennett and myself especially wish to express our heartfelt sympathy to his widow, Mrs. Sloan, and to his son and daughter."

Ike Backs Dulles On German Issue

(See also Page 7)

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today branded Russia's plan to demilitarize and isolate Germany as "an exercise in futility." But he offered the Russians "any assurance, any material move" that would overcome their fears of future German aggression.

He also told a National Press Club audience that he wants to find out from Anastas I. Mikoyan whether the Russians "are so sick of the armament burden that they want to find a way out of this dilemma."

He thought Mikoyan, first deputy Russian premier and right-hand man of Premier Khrushchev, should be trying to find out the same thing from him.

MEETING SATURDAY.

The two will meet here Saturday. Eisenhower said he has no intention of making any new proposals to Mikoyan because that would transform an informal talk into a kind of conference negotiation.

Turning to German issues, Eisenhower endorsed in his own words the stand taken Tuesday by State Secretary Dulles. Dulles rejected the Russian plan for a neutralized Germany and said Western policy must insist on a Germany integrated into Western Europe.

THE LATE GORDON McG. SLOAN

DIEFENBAKER SHOCKED BY SLOAN'S PASSING

The death today of The Hon. Gordon McG. Sloan brought instant words of regret from Prime Minister John Diefenbaker in Ottawa.

The prime minister said he was "shocked to hear of the death of the former Chief Justice of British Columbia, who was both an outstanding jurist and a public servant, throughout a most distinguished career."

Macy's Basement Intrigues Mikoyan

NEW YORK (AP)—Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan dropped into Macy's department store today. He headed straight for the bargain basement.

Mikoyan got a bit of special treatment. He was ushered in for his store tour half an hour before the morning opening hour, and thus was spared the usual shopping throngs.

Later Mikoyan was to take a pulse-sounding of the American financial system in a lunch with Wall Street bankers.

The return of the Russian trade expert to New York Tuesday night provoked relatively little disturbance. Although several hundred anti-Communist European refugees had been alerted for picket duty at Idlewild Airport, only about 20 showed up. They were herded off by police to a distant parking lot behind a wire fence, too far away for Mikoyan to see their placards.

An ominous warning followed Mikoyan from Los Angeles where Police Chief William H. Parker said foreign intelligence sources warned him Mikoyan "would not be allowed to leave this country alive."

Parker did not elaborate.

MAO TO MEET KHRUSHCHEV?

TOKYO (AP)—Japanese foreign office sources today reported that Mao Tse-tung will visit Soviet Premier Khrushchev in Moscow soon, probably around Jan. 27 when the Soviet Communist party congress meets.

The sources declined to reveal how they got their information.

Stricken While Convalescing; Funeral Friday

By A. H. STOTT

The Hon. Gordon McGregor Sloan, 60, forestry adviser to the provincial government and former Chief Justice of British Columbia, died at his home, 1029 Beach Drive, shortly before 3 a.m. today.

He had been convalescing from a coronary occlusion suffered last November and had been released from hospital Dec. 31.

Death came suddenly and unexpectedly, when all indications were that Mr. Sloan was on the road to recovery.

Recent visitors described him as appearing "in good spirits," looking well, and hoping for a return to his duties within a few months.

His demise ended an active life, embracing outstanding careers in law, public affairs and, during the last year, advisory counsel to the government on B.C.'s forest industries—a newly-created post which earned for him the unofficial title of British Columbia's forestry "czar" at a salary of $50,000 a year.

Tributes From All Walks

Funeral services will be held at Christ Church Cathedral Friday at 2 p.m. The Most Rev. Harold E. Sexton, Archbishop of British Columbia, will officiate.

Burial will take place at Royal Oak Burial Park in the family plot. Hayward's B.C. Funeral Co. Ltd. is in charge of arrangements.

The services, expected to draw one of the largest crowds of mourners of any funeral of recent times, will be attended by senior government officials, as well as dignitaries from the bench, the church and from all other professions and occupations.

Tributes flowing in today from men and women in all walks of life bore testimony to the respect and affection in which Mr. Sloan was held.

A unique combination of perceptive mind, broad vision, sound judgment, intense powers of concentration and personal charm early marked

Gordon Sloan for eminence in the affairs of his country.

Born at Nanaimo, May 16, 1898, he was raised in the family of a distinguished father, the Hon. William Sloan, leading figure in British Columbia's Liberal politics and member of provincial cabinets.

Following a private school education, he enlisted in Canada during the First World War, serving overseas with the RFC and RAF.

On his return he studied law, was called and admitted to the bar in 1921 and practiced with the firm of Farris and Company until he entered politics in the provincial general election of 1933. He was elected by Vancouver Centre and was appointed attorney-general in the administration of Premier T. D. Pattullo the same year, then the youngest attorney-general in history at 35.

Days of Unemployment Troubles

Those were days of high unemployment and deep trouble for British Columbia.

As attorney-general it was his duty to promulgate and carry through the House legislation to meet the difficulties of the era.

In 1937, while still under 40, he was elevated to Court of Appeal, a young man serving with veterans on the bench.

His capacities carried him to the Chief Justiceship by 1944 and his judgments have become authorities frequently cited.

It was a mark of his abilities that he was chosen to important investigations into matters of great public consequence in the role of royal commissioner.

In 1940 he presided over inquiries into the salmon fisheries of British Columbia for the federal government. Two years later he had been recruited to head a royal commission studying the provincial Workmen's Compensation Act and its administration for the province.

With each hearing the public acclaimed the stature of Mr. Justice Sloan. His services continued in demand.

First Forestry Inquiry in 1942

In 1942 he was called to the field which occupied so much of his later life. As royal commissioner inquiring into British Columbia's forest resources he laid the foundations for reports which are now handbooks on the subject.

His report of 1945 became the forestry Bible, the basis of the sustained yield policy which is today the vital conservation factor in the province's main industry.

In 1955 he renewed his inquiries on the same subjects, bringing them up to date and setting out broad policy for the development of the industry, the preservation of the resource and the higher efficiency of forestry administration by the government.

By that time the Chief Justice had made himself perhaps the outstanding overall authority on forestry in Canada. It was a natural step for the provincial government to invite him to utilize his knowledge and ability in that field in more direct form. He accepted the invitation and, to the applause of virtually all connected with the woods and the woods industries, became provincial adviser on all matters related to the forest resources.

In the intervening years he had carried on his interrupted duties as presiding officer over the Court of Appeal, had assumed the post of the official administrator when the Lieutenant-Governor was away from the city, discharging with customary dignity and efficiency the responsibilities of the sovereign's representative, and had been called for numerous other outside tasks.

Among them were the office of arbitrator for the national railway dispute in 1944-55, and mediator in labor
